Joliet Hotel Fire Claims Six Lives

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — Fire raced through a small hotel in downtown Joliet on Saturday taking a toll of six lives. Nine other persons were injured, three critically. Patrolman Lee Harris was among the first to reach the scene at the two-story building that housed the Grand Hotel. He gave this description, "There was fire coming out of the back windows and heavy billowing smoke. Flames were everywhere; everything was just burning."

"People were hanging from window ledges and dropping from the sides of the building. I saw a woman, her clothing on fire, jump right through the glass of a window and fall into the alley. There was a lot of screaming and hollering. It was horrible to see."

The 27-room hotel was on the second floor of a 50 feet wide structure at 21 E. Cass St., in the business district of the Will County seat about 35 miles southwest of Chicago. The first housed an auto parts store.

The hotel manager, Robert Burnicky, 31, told authorities 28 guests were registered in the hotel when the blaze erupted shortly after 3 a.m.

U of C Students Jeer Gov. Reagan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A crowd of nearly 10,000 students and teachers shouted down Gov. Ronald Reagan Saturday at his surprise appearance at their march on the Capitol.

The Republican governor just finished saying, "I tell you now that I am going to represent the people of this state."

Immediately the crowd burst into a swelling chant, "We are the people."

He was booed earlier when he opened his five-minute talk, "There is nothing I can say that would create an open mind in some of you."

He also said, "Never will I permit a regent of the university to actively participate in a political campaign in my behalf," referring to alleged "political interference" in high education.

Preceding the march a state college faculty union leader predicted "the schools won't open next fall" if Reagan's higher education budget cuts and tuition plan go through.

5 Decisions Possible In Powell Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the select committee looking into Adam Clayton Powell's qualifications for a House seat are currently considering at least five possible recommendations, it was learned Saturday.

This emphasizes the contention of Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., that the committee has a broad mandate under which the nine-member group could well propose something other than merely seating or excluding the controversial New York Democrat.

It means also the House may find itself confronted with a situation in which a two-thirds vote may be required to keep Powell out.

In another development in the Powell case Saturday, it was disclosed that some of the men who served as his top aides when he was chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee are being dismissed from their committee jobs. Such a turnover, however, is not unusual when a committee chairmanship changes hands.

Despite the continuing political overtones in the case and published polls showing two of every three Americans favor Powell's expulsion from Congress, members of the committee are determined to confine (Turn To Page 13)

Believe Allies Can Soon Force Hanoi Into Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Vietnam truce headed into its final phase, some U.S. strategists anticipated Saturday that the prospective renewal of the Allied military offensive may well improve the outlook for eventual peace talks.

Their reasoning goes like this: Hanoi has been trying to get something for nothing by saying there "could" be peace negotiations provided the United States halts its bombing of North Vietnam.

But over the last few days, President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk have made it clear that even if Hanoi says it "will" start discussions upon a bombing halt, that is not enough. For a reduction of its air attacks, Washington wants a reciprocal cutback in North Vietnam's military activities against South Vietnam.

And the resuming of the bombings after the cease-fire, in the opinion of these strategists, will convince Hanoi's leadership that the American government means what it says and will not abandon its air weapon for vague suggestions.

The current U.S. diplomatic probes therefore are directed in particular at finding out what price Hanoi is willing to pay, once it understands it cannot halt the air raids by propaganda.

Washington has informed the North Vietnamese leadership that it is willing to engage in peace talks without any prior conditions.

Or as an alternative, Hanoi has been told, each side could scale down its military activities without any formal negotiating. In that event, the North Vietnamese have been asked to provide some notice of reduced armed activities so U.S. intelligence would know what to look for.

A combination of both alternatives is also possible. But so far, U.S. diplomats say they have received no meaningful response from the Reds.

There are some here who believe the Vietnamese war is more likely to die down without peace talks rather than with a formal conference.

They contend that whether the North Vietnamese are forced militarily to draw back, or decide to pull out for political reasons, they would feel freer to start up in South Vietnam at some future time if they are not hampered by a treaty commitment.

Also, Hanoi does not acknowledge officially that North Vietnamese forces have been sent to South Vietnam.

Full-Scale Fighting Resumes

Army Takes Over In Red Capital

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese dispatches reported the Red Chinese army took control of Peking Saturday while orders posted in the name of Mao Tse-tung alerted military commanders on the frontiers to watch for moves against China by forces of imperialism and revisionism — Chinese terms for the United States and the Soviet Union.

A dispatch from the Peking-based correspondent of the Tokyo newspaper Nihon Keizai said the Public Security Ministry and the People's Liberation Army garrison command issued a decree revealing the command has taken over duties of the police and set up a "military control committee."

Red Guards posted orders in Mao's name around Peking, another Japanese dispatch said.

The emphasis in the orders was on the Soviet-Chinese border in the west and Sinkiang Province, where Red China has its nuclear testing ground at Lop Nor, the Japanese account reported. It added there is also some concern in Peking for mainland areas facing the Nationalist Chinese island of Formosa.

The orders noted a sharp increase in aircraft and troop movements along the Soviet-Sinkiang border but did not say whether they were Chinese or Russian.

A Peking dispatch of the Kyodo news service said the posted orders quoted Mao as telling military commanders and Communist party leaders they need not pursue his purge of internal foes simultaneously with the alert. He also acknowledged that this turn of events would delay the purge, Kyodo said.

Kyodo said the orders were contained in mimeographed bulletins posted in the Chinese capital as 100,000 persons demonstrated outside the Soviet Embassy. Earlier Premier Chou En-lai and Foreign Minister Chen Yi assailed the Soviet leadership in a mass rally.

Chou and Chen, as well as other officials at the rally wore military uniforms, other Japanese dispatches said.

Kyodo's dispatch quoted the Red Guard bulletins as emphasizing a sinking specific emphasis on Sinkiang Province, which borders on Soviet central Asia. Anti-Maoists led by Gen. Wang En-mao, political and military commander of the province, were reported by Moscow radio on Feb. 3 to be entrenched in the mountains and engaged in guerrilla warfare in Sinkiang. Kyodo said Mao's alert was made to Gen. Yeh Chien-ying, deputy chairman of the National Defense Council, and sent to 13 military district commanders. The districts specifically mentioned in the bulletins are Sinkiang, Tsinan, Nanking, Foochow, Kwangchow-Canton and Kunming, Kyodo said. The others apparently were not named.

Kyodo said there is growing concern among Mao's backers that Poochow and Kwangchow — Canton — could possibly become the "frontline" since both districts are located in a coastal area opposite Formosa.

Mao said the purge is progressing in the provinces and the people's army should extend every support to the revolutionary left-wing faction — pro-Mao forces in seizing control.

But in "making preparations to meet the situation," wall posters quoted Mao as saying, "The timetable for the cultural revolution may be set back somewhat."

Kyodo reported the bulletins quoted Mao as saying the alert is necessary because the "forces of imperialism and revisionism" are taking advantage of the great proletarian cultural revolution to move against China. This is the name given to Mao's purge of followers of President Liu Shao-chi, whom Mao wants to replace.

Peking calls the Russians revisionists, in line with Mao's claim that the Kremlin has revised the original communism of Marx and Lenin and is following a capitalist road.

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnam's new constitution is nearing completion in an atmosphere of restrained optimism.

By law the constitution must be written by March 27. It is now expected to be completed a week or two early.

A head-on clash between the 117-member Constituent Assembly which is writing the new national charter, and the military government which has the final word on its implementation appears to have been avoided.

A series of private luncheon and dinner meetings this month between junta leaders and members of the assembly have lessened the danger of sharp divergence on the provisions, Vietnamese sources said.

Both sides appear to be doing everything possible to avoid a confrontation. This is good politics everywhere and especially in Asia, where confrontations are to be avoided if face is to be saved.

The assemblymen resume sitting Tuesday in the refurbished French-built opera house, they will debate the proposed powers of the executive branch.

Political sources said the generals who rule Vietnam were unhappy with the draft article on presidential powers. The Constituent Assembly limited the powers of the executive branch compared with those for the proposed National Assembly.

This was deliberate. Some deputies were imprisoned during the regime of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem. Under Diem the legislature was a rubber-stamp body.

"The problem before us is to have a strong, effective government and still prevent a dictatorship," Dr. Phan Quang Dan told his fellow deputies.

Diem's overthrow Nov. 1, 1963, marked the end of the old constitution. It could not be revived for emotional, nationalist reasons.

The Constituent Assembly was elected last Sept. 11 to draft a new one. Analysts said fewer than half of the deputies have had meaningful political experience. Most are young. Their average age is just under 40.

Richard B. Russell

Sees OK On Antimissile Plan Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., predicts that Congress will put up the $377 million President Johnson asked in standby funds to start installing an antimissile system.

Russell, who heads the Senate Armed Services Committee, said in an interview "Congress is in a box" because Johnson made spending of the proposed appropriation contingent on negotiations with the Soviet Union for an agreement under which neither country would go into this highly expensive field.

"I don't know anything that Congress can do but provide the money and hope that it won't have to be spent," Russell said.

He said that if the Russians prove obstinate about expanding the skeleton system they are installing around Moscow he looks for a long-term American program which would require an outlay of about $40 billion over the next 10 years.

"We could do it, of course, but I hope we don't have to," Russell said.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., head of the Senate House Economic Committee, said he believes the Russians are changing their tune since Johnson's announcement that he wants an agreement to eliminate antimissile outlays.

"I think that (Secretary of Defense Robert S.) McNamara is finally getting through to them, that if you spend $3 or $4 or $5 billion for defense in an antimissile system, you can contract that by spending about $1 billion in offense," he said.

Report 168 American Casualties In 'Truce'

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The war in Vietnam picked up where it left off Sunday after a four-day lunar new year truce marked by 168 American casualties. As the cease-fire ended, a U.S. spokesman said, "Full military activity in the Republic of Vietnam was resumed."

The truce proclaimed by South Vietnam and joined by its allies ended at 7 a.m. Saigon time — 6 p.m. EST — as scheduled, despite a Viet Cong declaration that the Communists would hold off offensive activity until Wednesday morning.

Asked if the announcement that military activity was resumed meant new air raids against targets in Communist North Vietnam, the U.S. spokesman said, "I can't comment on that."

The truce provided four days of nominal peace in which such world figures as Pope Paul VI and U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant had sought to have the cease-fire extended into talks aimed at ending the war.

As the four-day halt in offensive operations neared an end, however, it had become increasingly evident in Saigon that the truce period would end as scheduled despite the criticism it might bring in Communist neutralist and other centers of international opinion.

The South Vietnamese and U.S. Command had reported a soaring total of cease-fire incidents they blamed on the Communists, and the American side accused North Vietnam of using the truce period to move massive amounts of men and supplies south.

The U.S. spokesman said 26 cease-fire incidents were recorded by American forces during the truce period, with 8 of them considered significant — meaning there were casualties on one or both sides.

South Vietnamese military headquarters reported it had recorded a total of 108 incidents during the cease-fire period, but a spokesman said no breakdown was immediately available as to how many of them were considered significant.

The total reported by both commands was 377 incidents far exceeding the number of incidents reported in Christmas and New Year cease-fires of two days each.

The U.S. spokesman said 2 Americans were killed by enemy action in the cease-fire stand down and 148 were wounded. He said 101 enemy were killed and 65 were detained.

All the figures were subject change, he added, as later reports were expected to bring accounts of additional incidents occurring up to the deadline.

As if expecting grounded U.S. combat planes and muzzle warships to strike at it again, North Vietnam reiterated in a broadcast from Hanoi that peace talks could take place only after an unconditional halt in U.S. bombing "and other acts of war" against North Vietnam.

The U.S. Command announced there had been a considerable decline in the southward movement of North Vietnamese supplies after a surge that was reported Friday to be five times the normal level when the warplanes were aloft.

This could mean that, with extra munitions piled up near the border, President Ho Chi Minh's regime didn't want its trucks and boats exposed unnecessarily — loaded or empty — after Sunday's dawn.

The Viet Cong, in their own one-sided truce call, sought a seven-day break for the Tet holidays, the Vietnamese celebration of the lunar new year. They said they intended to refrain from initiating any action until 7 a.m. Wednesday.

JAIL NOT ESCAPE-PROOF — LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — Liverpool University students have deepened the chagrin at Walton jail where five men escaped at Christmas time in a rash of holiday breaks from British prisons. The students celebrated "Rag Week" by painting their cryptic motto "Panto 67" on an inside wall after breaking in commando style with a rope scaling-ladder and escaping without detection.

THE RUSSIANS have their problems with demonstrators, too. When Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin arrived in London to visit British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, Ukrainian pickets paraded with placards in protest of Soviet policies back home.

Informality was the order of the day, beginning with Mrs. Sheena Mahon, 25, a housewife clutching her baby son, who leaned across police crash barriers in Glasgow's George Square to present Kosygin and his daughter posies of white snowdrops.

Kosygin shook hands with people in the crowd as he made his way to a reception at the City Hall. He couldn't get enough of it and told the crowd: "I am sorry to be rushing. It is not my fault but that of the organizers for making me go so quickly."

Inside City Hall, Lord Provost (Mayor) John Johnston laid a drink for Kosygin, who had let it be known that he wanted a taste of Scotland's famous water of life. But the handshaking had slowed him up and he had to wait until lunch for that drink.

Glasgow has a radical history going back to the militant unions formed at the turn of the century. Johnston reminded the premier it was the first city to send greetings to the Bolshevik government after the Bolshevik Revolution.

The city's radicalism was displayed Saturday by members of the campaign for nuclear disarmament carrying banners with such slogans as: "Scotland will die when Kosygin's bombs hit guards."

Last week they kidnapped a Danish soccer star and held him for ransom. Police feared they might overreach themselves and try a similar stunt on Kosygin, forgetting his armed bodyguards.

The U.S. Polaris submarine base in Holy Loch is only 30 miles from Glasgow.

Police were more worried about pranksters in the local university "Rag Week," when students dress in outlandish costumes and organize stunts to raise money for charity.

American Missile Buildup Has Emphasis On Offense

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by Russia's deployment of an antimissile defense, the United States is embarked on far-ranging ballistic missile programs that mark a new era in strategic weaponry.

Strength by sheer numbers of warheads is the main object of the multi-billion dollar effort, but attention is also being focused on highly sophisticated guidance and re-entry systems, decoys and penetration aids.

The critical goal is maintaining what Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara calls an "assured destruction" capability — the power to unleash an unchecked amount of destruction against any enemy.

This approach, stressing the offensive, is preferred by McNamara over any defensive system, including antimissile batteries.

As an informed source put it: "We want the enemy to know by his own calculations that we can overwhelm him, then we add some fancy stuff to make his defenses more expensive."

The "fancy stuff" includes dummy warheads which would separate from Minuteman II ICBM's in flight to confuse enemy radars and electromagnetic countermeasures to jam detection systems.

The United States now has three times as many intercontinental ballistic missiles as Russia — 1,446 to the Soviets' 470, by Pentagon figures.

Sources say the gap is narrowing, and will continue to narrow in the next few years, but the United States will maintain a wide lead in terms of warheads.

McNamara discussed this aspect in his annual military report to Congress last month, saying "it is not the number of missiles which is important but rather the character of the payloads they carry; the missile is simply the delivery vehicle."

In other words, U.S. missiles will be equipped more and more with multiple warheads. U.S. officials only a few days ago acknowledged for the first time that America's newest sea-based Poseidon missiles which will soon be deployed will be armed with multiple warheads.

The advanced Minuteman III, a 6,300-mile range ICBM which will eventually be planted in concrete firing silos in northern and central areas of the United States, also will carry more than one nuclear package, each equipped with separate guidance systems to steer it to separate targets.

Aviation Week magazine reports that the United States is developing new re-entry vehicle technology to "establish the capability to launch more than five hydrogen warheads" on a single Minuteman III or Poseidon missile.

"If this technology is successful, the U.S. by 1972 will be able to blanket the Soviet Union and China with more than 5,000 warheads launched by 1,656 missiles," Aviation Week's Edward H. Koles wrote. The 1,656 missiles would be the presently programmed 1,000 Minuteman II and III missiles and 656 Polaris submarine launched missiles.

Also, Hanoi does not acknowledge officially that North Vietnamese forces have been sent to South Vietnam.

Scots Greet Kosygin

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — To a wail of bagpipes and thunderous cheers, Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin smiled, waved and unburdened with his Scottish hosts Saturday on a tour highlighted by a soccer game and a sip of Scotch whisky.

He left the formality of diplomatic talks in London for the only day of outright sightseeing on his week-long visit to Britain. The normally dour Scots put on their most hospitable manner for him.

Kosygin couldn't resist a detour at one point — to a hamlet south of Glasgow called Moscow.

Scots turned out by the thousands. There were burly Glaswegians, 30,000 fans at a big league soccer match and technicians in neat white coveralls at a nuclear power plant, which was a must for the engineer-premier of the Soviet Union.

Informality was the order of the day, beginning with Mrs. Sheena Mahon, 25, a housewife clutching her baby son, who leaned across police crash barriers in Glasgow's George Square to present Kosygin and his daughter posies of white snowdrops.

Kosygin shook hands with people in the crowd as he made his way to a reception at the City Hall. He couldn't get enough of it and told the crowd: "I am sorry to be rushing. It is not my fault but that of the organizers for making me go so quickly."

Dr. Hendrickson Does Article 'As We Knew Adlai'

Dr. Walter B. Hendrickson, professor of history at MacMurray College, has a book review, "As We Knew Adlai: The Stevenson Story by Twenty-Two Friends" in the winter issue of the Journal of the Illinois State Historical Society.

Dr. Hendrickson, in his review points out the book is an episodic biography of the late governor, presidential candidate, and ambassador Stevenson. Through the book Stevenson's friends tell in an informal and entertaining way about his personal traits: courage, sincerity, and dedication to duty.

Reviewer Hendrickson shows that a Stevenson cult developed, and that the 22 friends and many more gave him affection and loyalty. For this reason, Dr. Hendrickson suggests a reader of the book will not get an objective picture of Adlai Stevenson. The book will, however, add, Hendrickson, provide a useful source of material for future historians, because it will provide first-hand information about the good qualities of the man.

The auto industry of the United States produced a record 9,335,000 cars in 1965, about 18 every minute of the year.

The town said anybody could caress Mrs. Talbot's neck. But only one person could have caressed it that hard...

Friday Concert For Students Was Big Success

By Walter B. Hendrickson
A large and enthusiastic audience of grade school and junior high students, and their parents, attended the concert presented by the Jacksonville Symphony Orchestra in the high school auditorium Friday evening, Feb. 10.

Under the leadership of Dr. Henry E. Busche, a program of music associated with different dance forms was presented. Dr. Busche in genial manner commented on the pieces that were played, explaining that there are two great uses for music, one for poems and stories (songs), and the other for dances. The march, rumba, gavotte, folk dance, pavan, and waltz were illustrated by music composed by Saint-Saens, Benjamin, Gluck, Bartok, Gould, and Tschaiikovsky.

The concluding part of the program was the overture to the opera Hansel and Gretel, in which both songs and dances are accompanied by music. Dr. Busche narrated the story of the opera in an amusing and dramatic manner which greatly pleased the children.

The concert was made financially possible by the Jacksonville Symphony Society as a part of its program to encourage symphonic music in the Jacksonville area.

The Jacksonville Orchestra Parents Association co-sponsored the concert, provided ushers, and gave a reception afterwards that was greatly enjoyed by everyone and made the occasion a warm community event.

Mrs. Friedrich Engelbach and Ernest Canuto, presidents of the sponsoring organizations appreciate cooperation of following groups for help in making the concert a success: Classroom Teachers, District 117 Music Department, Staff of the Jacksonville High School, and the members of the Symphony Orchestra.

Kenneth Stark Featured Speaker At GOP Dinner

GREENFIELD — At the Greene County Republican Lincoln Dinner, Saturday night in Greenfield, speaker Kenneth Stark said that "the Republican Party had pretty much ruled this country for 70 of the last 100 years."

"Under Republican leadership the country prospered, citizens were encouraged to be self-reliant, law-abiding and their respect and honored their government."

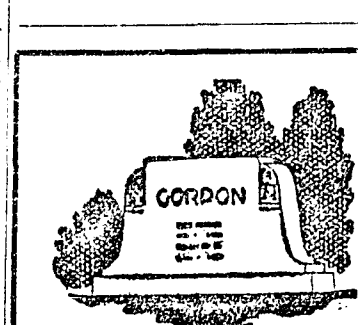

Stark said that "Dissatisfaction with both foreign and domestic policies of the Johnson Administration was evidenced throughout the nation in the November 2 protest vote. Nevertheless, Lyndon Johnson, health permitting, will be the Democratic nominee for President in 1968. Hubert Humphrey will be his running mate and Bobby Kennedy will wear out his popularity and just fade away."

"The Republicans have several Presidential possibilities similar to 1952 when General Eisenhower, Senator Taft and General MacArthur were available. Now there is Richard Nixon, Governor Reagan, Governor Rhodes, Governor Winthrop Rockefeller and Governor Evans as well as our own Senator Chuck Percy."

Stark, who was a delegate to the 1964 Republican National Convention, added that "Governor Romney would not be able to get approval of the delegates."

"A combination of widespread dissatisfaction with the present administration and the wealth of material on the Republican side, make a Republican Presidential victory in 1968 probable and with this victory should go others including a Republican Governor in Illinois."

Jersey Housing Proposal Put Before Council

JERSEYVILLE — A meeting of the Jersey County Housing Board was held Tuesday evening at the Town Hall. Arthur Kaha, employed by the federal government, was present for the meeting.

The City of Jerseyville has applications for seventy housing units, fifty for working families and twenty for retired or elderly persons.

Certification is dependent on the passage by the Jerseyville City Council of the qualified building and housing codes. Mayor James Donlan reported that the municipality is in the final stages of developing and passing the necessary codes. Four building code ordinances were placed on file at the meeting of the City Council Tuesday evening.

Approval of these codes is a required step for certification of the housing program. Kaha expressed the opinion that it is possible that the local program could begin in June if the required groundwork is completed. Attending the meeting were Mayor James Donlan, A. R. Major, Paul Horn, James Allen, Virgil Meyers, Adolph Schultz and Arthur Kaha.

Magistrate Court Fines

Magistrate Paul Fenstermaker and Deputy Circuit Clerk Mrs. Mabel Brown presided over several cases last week in which the defendants entered pleas of guilty to traffic violations.

Cases handled by the magistrate were: Alida G. Williams, 1124 West Walnut, no driver's license, $20; Christopher William Lucan, Tarzana, Calif., operating without ICC authority, $25; Glen Bereaw, Westville, no valid Illinois registration, $25; David L. Mefford, Virginia, too fast for conditions, $20.

Speeding violations handled by the clerk: Wesley J. Elliott, Mt. Sterling, $15; Raymond D. Campen, Waverly, $8; Marsha L. Gregory, Winchester, $11; Marvin C. Barrett, Bluffs, $15; Ronnie E. Splain, 706 N. East, $15; Donnie L. Alcorn, 400 E. Vandalia, $15.

Other violations handled by the clerk: Elmer Leon Bettis, Jerseyville, load not secured, $10; Wesley J. Elliott, Mt. Sterling, disobeyed stop sign, $10; Robert A. Krohe, Beardstown, disobeyed traffic signal, $10; Barbara J. LaMaster, 534 Hardin, disobeyed stop sign, $10; Kenneth A. Gobble, Springfield, failure to yield at private drive, $10; Leonard O. Anderson, New Lenox, disobeyed stop sign, $10; and Richard L. Hendricks, Mt. Sterling, passing in no passing zone, $10.

All fines listed were subject to the addition of five dollars court costs.

Cass And Morgan Farm Bureaus Gain Members

The Farm Bureaus of Cass and Morgan counties launched a quest for new members two weeks ago and the result was much better than their highest hopes.

At the report meeting held at the Ranch House Wednesday evening, with Cary Strang, Morgan county Farm Bureau president, presiding, the township workers reported:

New members in Morgan: 18 regular memberships, active farmers and landowners; four associate members, who don't farm but who are very much interested in agriculture.

New members in Cass: six regulars and five associates. With these additions Morgan county now has 1,855 members and Cass 766.

The drive was put on by Farm Bureau members, spurred by the two organization directors—John Chambers of Morgan and Robert Henss of Cass.

Announcement of her selection was made at the annual Founders Day meeting of PTA councils here Wednesday night at the high school.

Mrs. Kirchner has been a member of the Washington School PTA for many years and has served as its president for two terms. She also has been active in the Head Start program, and many other community activities.

The meeting of Founders Day celebrants was presided over by Mrs. Harold Kuhlmann.

Officials On Panel Tonight At Centenary

The second of the four sessions of the study "Affluence and Poverty: Dilemma for Christians" will be held this evening from 5:30 to 7:30 at the Centenary Methodist Church. An interesting agenda has featured a play by Aileen Hale, "Two in a Trap," and a panel presentation by some of Jacksonville's community leaders.

The one act play is the compelling story about two women trapped in an elevator—one affluent, the other the victim of poverty. Tragic self-concern prevents communication between the two women who are being portrayed by Barbara Krupka and Linda Hamm, two MacMurray College students.

The panel discussion will be moderated by the lay leader of the Centenary Church, William Meyer, who is employed with the County Health Department. The panel will consider the question "Who are the poor in our city and what is being done for them?" Appearing on the panel will be Byron Holkenbrink, mayor of Jacksonville; William Walsh, School District 117 Director of Special Education and a leader in the "Head Start"

The London Times gives a detailed account of the whipping of two convicts at Leeds, who were sentenced to five years' penal servitude. The minute details of the account is horrible in the extreme, and not a whit better than that printed recently in the ILLUSTRATED PAPER of the use of the rack one hundred years ago.

The principal contestant with Ruskin for the position of Professor of Poetry, at Oxford, is Sir Francis Doyle, one of whose chief supporters says of Ruskin that while they do not deny his genius, yet it is so narrow, so tempestuous, and he himself is so ignorant of where his course lies, or what course it may take, that they think him peculiarly unfitted for the position. There is more truth in the estimate than Mr. Ruskin would allow.

— Harper's Weekly

HUMORS of the day

February, 1867

Why is wit like a Chinese lady's foot? Because brevity is the sole of it?

A clergyman gave a toast that was not very gallant, at a late fireman's celebration: "Our fire engines — may they be like old maids — ever ready, but never wanted!"

A person asked Mr. Patrick Maguire if he knew Mr. Tim Duffy.

"Know him," said Pat. "Why he's a very near relation of mine. He once proposed to marry my sister."

A PUZZLER — A domestic, newly engaged, presented to his master, one morning, a pair of boots, the leg of one of which was much longer than the other. "How comes it, Joseph, that these boots are not the same length?" "I really don't know, sir; but what bothers me the most is, that the pair down stairs is in the same fix."

— Harper's Weekly

DOMESTIC

February, 1867

At a recent dinner in this city, Mr. Peabody, the banker, whose liberality seems inexhaustible, and at which many magnates and men of letters were present, Mr. Peabody paid the honors of the evening to a literary man, considering evidently that a literary reputation pursues. The incident excited attention, since such a theory is not generally held in this country.

A force of 200 men have been engaged in clearing Broadway. It is a pity that they did not commence before.

The telegraph brings a report of Mr. Laird, the builder of the Alabama, intends paying out of his own pocket the claims for the vessels she destroyed. This is a fair sample of the value of the news sent over the Atlantic Cable. Mr. Laird is a member of Parliament, a large ship-builder, and was, of course, a warm sympathizer with the rebellion.

The American Institute have resolved to hold an exhibition in 1876, the hundredth year of American Independence, of American Industry and Art. They hope that by that time there will be a suitable building in the city for such a purpose. At present, however, there is none, but nine years may produce great things in this fast country.

ARITHMETICAL PROGRESSION — The new bridge over Broadway has just been begun, the authority for its construction having been given last February. Now, if it takes one year to commence a bridge of forty feet span over a street, how long will it take to begin the bridge over the East river? The charter of the latter grants five years for beginning it, but if there be any proportion between the length of the bridge and the time of building it, we need not expect to walk to Brooklyn — except on the ice — under fifty years.

— Frank Leslie's Newspaper

News, Views Century Ago

From the Carrollton Gazette:

WHITEHALL LOCALS — CAUGHT — Kittredge, the Aurora Oil man, mentioned in our last, was arrested by the officers just he was about to take his departure from Jacksonville, forgetful of his hotel bill. He is now, we understand, lodged safely in the jail at Carrollton, where he belongs.

THE LATE FIRE — Mr. J. Israel's loss at the late fire in Glasgow, will reach the sum of $2,250. Two thousand of which was covered by insurance in the United States Insurance Co., Freeport, Ill. Their agent, Mr. Wheeler, was promptly on hand to adjust the loss. Mr. Israel had taken the goods from his store in Whitehall, to start a branch store in Glasgow, and had been opened but a very few days before being burnt out.

A PAPER — It seems that Whitehall is at last about to have a paper of its own. Mr. H. C. Green, of the Carrollton Enterprise, is the pioneer in this enterprise and we understand he plans to present the first issue of the "Whitehall Review" to our citizens one week from Saturday next.

From the Beardstown Central Illinoisian:

SOLDIER'S FESTIVAL — The G.A.R. Post, at Virginia, are going to celebrate Washington's birthday with a festival at Trotter's Hall, for the benefit of widows and orphans. Among the other good things of the occasion will be an address by Major General Hurlburt, (the national commander) to be followed by appropriate toasts. Admission $1.00 per couple.

IN JAIL — A man by the name of West, who has made himself notorious in this community by knocking down our Frenchman and breaking into Mr. Treadway's grocery, and leaving his card in the cash drawer and taking some guns, was committed to jail on Monday last for want of bail.

The machinery for the United Petroleum Company of this place has arrived. As soon as the frost leaves the ground the work east of the city will begin in good order.

From the Jacksonville Sentinel: VISIT OF THE LEGISLATIVE INDUSTRIAL COMMITTEE — Since our last issue committees of each branch of the Legislature have been appointed to visit Champaign, Bloomington and Jacksonville, for the purpose of examining and weighing the several bids offered for the location of the Industrial University.

The legislative joint committee, having already visited Champaign and Bloomington, came down yesterday on a special train for the purposes of inspecting the bid of Morgan county. They were met by a large committee of citizens and escorted in carriages to the Dunlap House, where they took dinner, and thence to view the several grounds embraced in the Morgan bid. A large number of members, officers and lobbyists accompanied the committee, and a number of ladies also swelled the ranks of the visitors, ample provisions having been made for the entertainment of all.

In the evening the distinguished guests participated in a sociable and ball at the Dunlap House, where the lively waltz and gallopade presented tempting attractions, and the pleasant hours thus passed until train time was announced at 11 o'clock, when the line of carriages conveyed the legislative party to the depot.

NEW PATIENT LIBRARY—The new library at the Drake patient service center is large, spacious and the lighting is exceptional. All but two stacks have been filled, but Dr. Steve Pratt, superintendent guaranteed that the library would be filled soon, now that the hospital has sufficient facilities. Previously, before the center was constructed, several of the facilities now housed under one roof, were scattered in various buildings on the grounds.

Area Resident In Hall Of Fame

The manager of Purdue University's Lynnwood Farm near Carmel, Ind., was one of two men nominated to the Hall of Fame portrait gallery of the Indiana Livestock Breeders Association last week.

Honored was Charles H. Nickel, manager since 1950 of Lynnwood Farm, a 623 acre tract in Hamilton county (Ind.) used for experiments in cattle feeding and pastures and demonstrations in related problems.

Nickel is a former resident of northern Morgan county, between Arenzville and Concord, where he raised Berkshires. Lynnwood's Berkshire herd is one of the outstanding in the country. Formerly registered Shorthorns and Percheron horses were raised at the farm. Nickel attended the University of Illinois.

Nickel is widely known as a top livestock judge.

Egyptian Vendetta Remains A Religion

ASSIUT, Upper Egypt (AP)—An awesome atmosphere covers this part of Upper Egypt, where people are half-asleep, their fingers poised on triggers, and human life costs no more than a bullet.

The law, which assiduously seeks to curb the fury of the vendetta in this region, appears to gain successes but these are generally only short-lived. The hot-blooded Upper-Egyptians, known as the typical descendants of the pharaohs, regard the vendetta as a religion. They have a deep belief that it is a matter of honor and pride. Two feuding families can never make peace if unsettled differences remain.

People tell the story that a man once was offered in sacrifice by a family seeking to make peace with another. The family appeared, carrying the man's burial shroud, a gun and a dagger laid on it.

Both clans were there, about 500 in all. The sacrificial man's opponent waited for him. Then, a moment of deadly silence.

"We forgive you," the opponent's voice rumbled.

This was the aftermath of three days of deliberations for peace and 15 years of killing, with a toll of 295 dead, according to police records.

Next day, turbulence broke out anew between the two families after a row over a corn deal. It aroused another wave of killing.

Police attempting to curb the slaughter are assisted by religious preachers who seek to heal rifts.

But Sheikh Moustafa says it takes a great deal of effort to attain a truce between feuding families. When murder occurs, he said, the victim's relatives choose the most important man in the killer's home. He seldom escapes death even if he travels abroad.

The sheikh cited a doctor, native of the town of Badari, near Assiut, who arrived from England to see his family. When he hugged his father, they were shot dead by the doctor's cousin in "settlement" of a blood debt.

A police officer said authorities become entangled in two snarls: The avengers seek to take the law in their own hands. So they frustrate police investigation by supplying false clues to the murderer's real identity. They also accuse innocents to spread further confusion.

Officials have sought to prevent vendettas by arresting and confining heads of hostile families.

The governor of Assiut seeks to reduce differences by visiting the families in question. He also imposes stern security measures.

But the vendettas of Upper Egypt go on.

Shape Of The Future

Air Force Unveils 'Wingless Wedge'

By RALPH DIGHTON

Associated Press Science Writer

They spiral down from space like a flock of wingless birds, skidding to a halt on the runway. Out of the weird, wedge-like craft pour helmeted men and boxes of film and tape with secret data gleaned during a 30-day tour aloft surveying the world.

They have already radioed welcome news: photographs taken and developed aloft prove that reports that the enemy is massing forces for a maximum effort are false.

Had the reports been true the same strangely contoured craft, dispatched from an orbiting arsenal, could have been aimed at the enemy. They would have carried not men but bombs.

This is a fictional look at a future made possible by a little-touted development Air Force experts privately call "the greatest innovation since the missile."

Military and civilian scientists have worked on it for years, finally coming up with a shape able to fly in either the atmosphere or space, on peaceful or hostile missions.

It is a wingless wedge that is being designed to: Rocket into orbit to resupply friendly satellites, destroy enemy spacecraft, rescue stranded astronauts or become a satellite itself.

Drop from any point in orbit, maneuver over and land in any country in the world — a feat impossible for the present capsules of this country's Mercury, Gemini and Apollo space programs.

Its adaptability to many functions means economical mass production and, like the high-rocketing X15 from which much of its technology was learned, it is reusable.

This new shape is called a

"lifting body," meaning it gets aerodynamic life from the contour of its body instead of from wings as do conventional aircraft.

It evolved slowly in wind tunnels as scientists labored for a design without wings — which would be torn off by re-entry into the atmosphere from 17,500 mile-an-hour orbit — but with still enough lift to keep it from falling like a stone.

From dozens of tested shapes ranging from spheres to teardrops emerged one: a bullet cut in half lengthwise. Strangely enough, flight tests have shown it flies equally well with either the flat side or the rounded side down.

Pound for pound, it has more room inside for passengers and cargo than winged craft. It cannot maneuver tightly at low speeds and altitudes, but its small fins and rudders do give it enough controllability for safe landings. In space it is guided by reaction jets like those which control the X15 on its flights above the atmosphere.

To Air Force planners, development of the lifting body means they can begin to think about moving into space on the mass scale with which they now move in the atmosphere — that is, the Air Force can become an aerospace force: surveying, defending and striking in and from space as well as the air.

To civilian scientists the lifting body means more space knowledge at less cost with reusable vehicles.

The first lifting body actually to support its own weight in flight dates back only six years.

Dale Reed, an engineer at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Research Center at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., read of wind tunnel studies with the shape and built a 25-inch-long model in his garage in the spring of 1961.

He flight-tested the strange contraption by towing it aloft behind a radio-controlled, gasoline-engine model airplane. Movies he made of the models in flight formed the basis for a proposal to build a manned vehicle.

Two years later a full-scale plywood lifting body, the M2F1, was towed to 12,000 feet, cut loose and flown to a safe landing by space agency test pilot Milton Thompson.

The M2F1 flew with its rounded side down, as did a later metal model, the M2F2, dropped from a B52 bomber at 45,000 feet. Last December a flat-side-down version, the HL10, got its first drop test and pilot Bruce Peterson, who had flown the M2F2, said they handled equally well.

While the space agency was testing lifting bodies in the lower atmosphere, the Air Force was testing small, unmanned versions in space. The first, a four-foot-long glider, was launched at Cape Kennedy, Fla., by Thor missiles. Six built lifting bodies could re-enter the atmosphere without being destroyed in the heat generated by air friction. These had coatings that char and thus dissipate heat without damaging internal structures.

From these lessons emerged an eight-foot-long, flat-bottomed vehicle designated SV5D. This was launched atop an Atlas from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., last December.

It separated from its booster and re-entered the atmosphere successfully, then was maneuvered by radio control to its target area near Kwajalein Island in the Pacific. It was supposed to be slowed by a balloon parachute and snatched from the air by a boom-trailing plane, but something went wrong and the craft plunged into the sea.

Other SV5D's will be launched, and Air Force sources are confident they will lead to a third project, called PILOT — for Piloted Low-Speed Tests. The first of these 24-foot-long, manned craft, called SV5P, is expected to be air-launched from a B52 at Edwards in 1968.

Both Air Force and NASA pilots will test the SV5P and other vehicles in a joint effort to develop a true aerospace vehicle. By 1970 Air Force scientists expect to produce an advanced maneuvering re-entry vehicle — MRV — to be launched by the most powerful missile yet, the triple-barreled Titan 3C.

The first flights will be unmanned. If they are successful, planners then will decide whether to put one man in it or go ahead with proposals for craft large enough for two or even four men.

The SV5P and later craft would be designed to come down at air bases selected by the pilot. They are being equipped with rocket engines to enable them to maneuver up, down or sideways and thus increase the number of airstrips at which they could land.

Eventually some lifting bodies may have scramjet engines, currently under test at Vandenberg. Launched into the upper atmosphere by small Scout rockets, scramjets scoop enough thin air at high altitudes to support combustion of their hydrogen fuel.

Lifting bodies designed solely to ferry men and supplies from satellites down to bases could get along with only scramjet engines. Craft required to boost themselves and maneuver in airless space would have to have rocket engines.

Much of the military's reluctance to talk about lifting bodies has been due to fear that some would think the canceled DynaSoar program was being revived under a different name.

But the DynaSoar orbital glider isn't being revived—it is being leapfrogged. The lifting body is far advanced beyond DynaSoar, shot down by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in December 1963.

Developed under budgetary restrictions imposed by the Vietnam war, the lifting body is not only better but much cheaper than DynaSoar would have been. The entire program has been funded at $47 million, for four flights and four vehicles. PILOT so far has been given $2 million for one vehicle.

Advanced lifting bodies capable of both air and space flight may be ready about the time Apollo astronauts go to the moon, but it is too late now to substitute a lifting body for the unmaneuverable capsule they'll ride back to earth.

"We had a commitment to land men on the moon at the end of the decade and we had to use existing technology. We couldn't wait and gamble that the lifting body would be perfected in time," says a NASA source.

But look-ahead scientists at NASA are already thinking of lifting bodies for the post-Apollo era, for landings not only on the moon but on the planets.

They believe the wingless wedge is the shape of things to come.

Statistics reveal that more than 30 per cent of U.S. drivers involved in fatal accidents in 1965 were under 25 years of age.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The 1967 stock market recovery showed further signs of correcting itself last week as it went through a kind of "sideways" action, neither rising nor falling.

More stocks rose than fell but popular averages declined.

Trading was heavy while it was in progress but volume for the week was reduced by an abbreviated session Tuesday as a blizzard snarled traffic in New York City.

Turnover during the week on the New York Stock Exchange was 48,150,150 shares compared with the record 54,128,160 of the previous week. The Dow Jones industrial average fell 1.73 to 355.73. At its best official reading of the week Thursday morning the Dow industrials were up to 366.26. They ended that day below 360, however, taking a net loss.

The 860 level in the Dow has been advertised as a formidable resistance level where large supplies of stock would be for sale. Despite great investment and speculative demand, there was apparently a great deal to this theory. The market tried hard but was unable to chew its way through the 860 level and remain above it.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks during the week took a minor loss of 4 at 316.3. Of the 1,587 issues traded, gainers outnumbered losers by 815 to 635.

The week was noteworthy in that it included declines Tuesday and Thursday. Out of the 29 market sessions this year there have been only four days when the market took a clear loss—when averages and the decline-advance ratio told the same story. The fact that two of these occurred within a single week was regarded as a sign that the market was indeed correcting the big upsurge of January.

The market scored a thumping advance Wednesday as new buying power came in to take advantage of the temporary price setback during the blizzard-shortened session Tuesday.

Bond market prices generally eased during the week in contrast to recent price advances.

completed and the government hopes to have complete returns by Feb. 24.

Sometimes after that — in March or April — the majority party's members of Parliament will meet to select the prime minister for the next five years. There is no question but that the Congress party again will be the majority party but there is considerable uncertainty whether Prime Minister Indira Gandhi will be their choice.

In May, all members of Parliament as well as all state legislators will vote on the country's next president. President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, who is 78 and in poor health, is not expected to stand for another term.

Mrs. Gandhi's Congress party is expected to make its worst showing since independence although it will still hold a majority. It holds 364 of 509 seats in Parliament now but may go into the next term with 325, or fewer, of 521 seats.

If the party does better than expected, Mrs. Gandhi's position will be strengthened but if it does badly, as feared, the party may look for a stronger candidate.

Mrs. Gandhi's seat in Parliament is regarded as certain. A "safe" constituency in her home state of Uttar Pradesh was selected so she could devote her time to national campaigning. But these plans were dashed when Mrs. Gandhi suffered facial injuries when hit by a stone thrown by a heckler at Bhubaneswar last Wednesday. She was hospitalized overnight Friday and ordered to discontinue her campaign.

Powell Case

their recommendations to the legal aspects of the case.

Whether the House will be equally legalistic in considering the committee's proposals, probably later this month, is another question.

"One problem," says committee member Andrew Jacobs Jr., D-Ind., "is that we are supposed to be a government of laws, but we are still a government of men."

Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., another member, said in an interview that in defining the scope of its inquiry the committee "thought there might be as many as five different possible actions."

"The committee has to consider these possibilities solely for the purpose of determining the scope of the investigation," MacGregor said. "We do not know what we are going to recommend."

The five possibilities listed by MacGregor are: (1) excluding Powell from taking the oath of office; (2) administering him the oath and then expelling him; (3) seating Powell; (4) seating Powell but censuring him; (5) giving him the oath but requiring "performance of certain acts by him before he can be seated."

The second possibility, expelling him, would require a two-thirds vote, while the others could be taken by a majority. But the House has generally accepted the doctrine that expulsion is limited to the conduct of members during their current term of office and cannot be applied for past indiscretions.

YOUNG FIRE VICTIM REMAINS CRITICAL

CHICAGO (AP)—Robin Dean, 5, a mop-headed little girl, appeared Saturday to be enduring the critical aftermath of grave burns satisfactorily.

She received her 14th transfusion since Wednesday when her dress caught fire as she was heating milk for her baby brother. More than 60 pints of blood were contributed to help the girl's fight for recovery. She received three degree burns over 60 per cent of her body.

Dr. Nelson Stone, assistant director of the Sumner L. Koch burn center of Cook County Hospital where the child is under treatment, said that, barring complications, Robin may be able to go home again in two months.

Firemen, including those who overcame the handicap of snow-clogged traffic by using a helicopter to get her into the specialized care of the burn center quickly, made most of the blood contributions.

Among those who rolled up their sleeves for blood tapping were Robert Hack and Donald Hoppe, crew of the fire department helicopter.

PERCY TO GIVE N.U. COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Charles H. Percy, Illinois' junior U.S. senator has accepted an invitation to give the principal address at Northwestern University's 109th annual commencement June 17, the university said Saturday.

Legislature Bogs Down In Committee In Whole Sessions

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — With about a fifth of its six-month session gone, how is the Illinois General Assembly faring on legislation Gov. Otto Kerner and Republican majority leaders tagged as important?

The rate of passage or defeat of bills has been slow compared to the rate of introduction.

Productive work has been blocked by a deadlock on emergency aid to Cook County that is nearly as old as the session.

How much legislation has won final clearance can be judged by this: Kerner signed the first two enactments of the Assembly 10 days ago. Monday he signed three more. About the most important of these was a $2 million deficiency to pay Vietnam bonuses.

This week the Illinois Senate can put on a little burst of speed by action on traffic safety bills to curb drunken drivers.

Senate committees also may grind out decisions on election reform, anti-crime and educational television measures.

Some lawmakers have expressed fears the legislature is bogging down in talky committee of the whole sessions, which take up time that might be spent in smaller committees to redraw hurried first drafts of bills.

Must Step Up Rate — Others warn the rate of action on bills must step up because the rate of introduction of bills has increased over previous sessions. In 1965, the legislature received 3,590 bills.

Sen. Arthur Swanson, R-Chicago, told the problem to the Senate Municipalities Committee last week. He said the legislature's bill drafters already have used up numbers beyond 2,000 on bills either prepared or in preparation.

"This is going to be a 5,000 bill session," Swanson said. Sen. W. Russell Arrington, the GOP majority leader, set an early fast pace by pre-filing

But Arrington responded the bills were of interest to the whole body and should be held in hearings out in the open. He has already held such meetings on credit reform, Sanitary District reorganization and Cook County emergency aid.

Although presentation of the governor's budget is due in about 30 days — usually holds up legislation that needs financing, other prime non-budget items to be acted on are numerous.

They include consumer credit, insurance, public employee and local government reforms.

Crimson Tip Lincoln In OT 68-62; ISD Wins 4th

Free Throws Again Margin Of Victory

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Jacksonville roared from eight points down in the fourth quarter then rode hot free throw shooting for the second night in a row to slip past Lincoln, 68-62, in an overtime contest played Saturday night at the JHS Bowl.

Duane Hess' 16-point second half and scoring heroics by Duane Mounts and Abe Brown in the fourth quarter allowed the Crimson to get the overtime shot. Then Hess and Brown hit four points apiece and freshman Chad Ormiston a clinching three-point play in the overtime to seal the verdict.

Just as in Friday night's 70-62 margin over Decatur Eisenhower, the Crimson used accuracy at the free throw stripe to run their record to 11-8. Out-scored from the field, outshot from the floor and outrebounced. JHS' pressing defense bothered the visiting Railsplitters enough to turn the tide.

Down 53-44 early in the fourth period, the Crimson again turned to their defense to get back in the game. Forcing nine turnovers in the final eight minutes, JHS used outside buckets by Rich Coble, Mounts and Brown to get within 47-44 with 5:36 to play.

Roar Into Lead
Free shots by Hess, who sat out most of the first half after picking up three quick personal fouls, and Robin Manker closed the margin to 49-47 with 3:37 showing. Mounts hit a baseline to offset Greg Guy's 15-footer and Brown pushed JHS into the lead for the first time since midway through the opening period with a three-point effort at the 2:33 mark.

Guy gave Lincoln the edge at 53-52, but Mounts and Hess hit three charity throws at the 1:30 mark for a 55-53 JHS advantage. Two charity throws by Guy knotted the count with 1:00 remaining before Brown hit from the deep corner with only 50 seconds to play.

Franklin Earns 71-57 MSM Win Over Kincaid

FRANKLIN — Franklin overcame a third period cold spell to notch a 71-57 victory over MSM for Kincaid here Saturday night. Leading by 40-29 at the half, Franklin fell prey to cold shooting in the third round and a slim 46-43 lead, but soon bounced back to take the decision going away.

Dean Seymour sparked Franklin from its low ebb with two straight jumpers from the side that got things rolling again.

Seymour topped the now 15-5 flashes with a 27-point night. Three other men hit in double figures for the victors, with Jim Rawlings, Darryl Smith and Alan Colwell netting 13, 12 and 10 respectively.

Tom Mayer led the losers with 20. Franklin shot at a 37% clip for the night, while Kincaid managed a 33% average.

The win lifted Franklin into second place in the MSM with a 7-3 record. Kincaid is now 6-3 in the league.

Trojans Thwart Porta's Surge For 57-55 Edge

PETERSBURG—Jerri Surratt and Harlen Fricke each collected a free throw in the final :20 here Saturday evening to lift Triopia to a slim 57-55 non-conference win over Porta.

Surratt's conversion made it 56-55 with :20 to go, while Fricke notched his tally with :06 showing. Porta failed on field goal attempts following both conversions.

Outscored from the floor, Triopia used a 19-9 advantage from the charity stripe to collect the win, its 18th of the year in 21 starts. Porta had only 19 chances from the line to 32 for the winners.

Triopia trailed by 16-10 at the first break but came back to take a 24-23 intermission spread. Triopia's 22-10 domination of the third period appeared to decide the issue, before Porta came roaring back, finally tying the game at 55-55 on a 10-footer by Dick Stiltz.

Stiltz and Dale Nissen each hit 15 for the hosting Bluejays who now stand 5-14 on the year. Bill Meier topped Triopia with 23.

Van Brocklin Quits As Minnesota Coach

ST. PAUL — MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Norm Van Brocklin, the only head coach the Minnesota Vikings have had since their entry into the National Football League six years ago, resigned Saturday.

The resignation was immediately accepted by the club's board of directors, and General Manager Jim Finks said, "as of now this club has no coach."

Van Brocklin did not attend a news conference called to make the announcement and was not available for comment.

The Vikings issued a prepared release which quoted Van Brocklin as saying: "Under existing conditions I feel the general interest of the Minnesota Vikings as well as those of my family and myself are best served at this time by my resignation as head coach."

"I wish to emphasize that this is not a hasty decision on my part, but one that I have given serious consideration to over a period of several months. It is, obviously, not an easy decision to make."

"However, I do have peace of mind and general interest of my family in mind in arriving at this decision. They are of paramount importance to me."

"It is my hope that the many followers of the Vikings will body."

Van Brocklin resigned in mid-season 1965, when he — by his own admission — despaired of the Vikings' inability to "get over the hump" and challenge for the championship of the Western Conference in the AFL.

However, he had a change of heart and returned as head coach 24 hours later, saying: "I've never been a quitter."

The breach between Van Brocklin and Tarkenton, rumored to be widening the past season, apparently was a key factor in both men's quitting.

LOUISVILLE Buries WICHITA BY 90-68

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Third-ranked Louisville employed its fast break and 20-point performances from three starters Saturday night to bury Wichita 90-68 in a Missouri Valley Conference basketball game.

Fred Holden led Louisville's scoring barrage with 23 points followed by Butch Beard with 22 and Westley Unsold with 20, as the Cardinals pushed their league record to 9-1. Wichita is now 6-3.

Wichita fell off the pace right from the start when it took the Shockers five minutes to score their first basket. That came on a jumper by Warren Armstrong to make it 12-7 in favor of Louisville.

Wichita, paced by Armstrong's 22 points, settled down for the remainder of the half, but trailed 45-29 at intermission.

Louisville outshot Wichita 55 to 50 per cent from the field.

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — Millikin was led by Jesse Price who racked up 35 points. Also aiding the cause was Jack Sunderlik with 24.

High for North Park was Dave Franzen with 20. Millikin led at intermission 36-29.

Kondla, Gophers Rip Illini 93-81

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Tom Kondla scored 32 points despite sitting out seven minutes of the second half with four fouls, leading Minnesota to a 93-81 Big Ten basketball victory over Illinois Saturday night.

The Gophers, now 2-5 in the conference, sprinted to a 19-8 lead in the opening seven minutes and Illinois never got closer than five points the rest of the way.

Minnesota had a 15-point lead at 33-18 with five minutes left in the first half, and was in front 43-32 at the half. Illinois cut the margin to 64-59 midway through the second half, but Wayne Barry led a Gopher surge that restored Minnesota's margin to 75-60. Illinois never got closer than nine after that.

Barry added 19 points and Rich Miller 17 for Minnesota. Jim Dawson topped Illinois with 22 and Dave Schol notched 19. Illinois now is 3-4 in the Big Ten.

'Cats Stay On Top Via 105-82 Edge

CHICAGO — Kevin Lawrence's corner jump shot bucket with only eight seconds left allowed Illinois College to notch a narrow 105-82 victory over the defensive-minded University of Chicago, here Saturday night.

Bob Pearson had given the hosts a 58-57 lead with a 20-footer with 18 seconds left before Lawrence's game-winning bucket. Before that the air-tight contest had been knotted at 39 and 41 and Chicago held a slim one or three-point lead.

Chicago, the nation's second leading defensive outfit because of its slow offensive play, held IC to its lowest total of the season. The winners shot an even 50% from the field, taking only 40 shots, while Chicago managed 39% but led off the boards by 43-33.

After three early ties, Chicago broke to a small lead but IC came back to lead 21-19 on Dan Runkle's three-point effort. While Chicago was going scoreless for five and a half minutes the visitors upped the difference to 26-19 before the hosts came back to within 31-29 at halftime.

The second half was more of the same, with several ties and both clubs holding slim leads.

IC, now 11-7, was led by Dick Clough's 15 points, while Martin added 13 and Lawrence 11.

Expect 180 MPH Today In Trials For Daytona 500

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Someone is likely to drive a stock car around Daytona International Speedway at 180 miles an hour Sunday.

Some think it will be Lee Roy Yarborough of Columbia, S.C., or David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., in a Dodge.

Some think it will be Fred Lorenzen of Houston, Tex., or A. J. Foyt of Elkhart, Ind., in a Ford.

Some think it will be Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., or Paul Goldsmith of Munster, Ind., in a Plymouth.

Some think it will be Sam McQuagg of Columbus, Ga., or Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., in a Mercury.

There are other views as well, about equal to the 72 entries who will vie for 50 starting positions in the Daytona 500 of Feb. 26 with its $200,000 prize melon.

Predictions are widespread that, given good weather, Yarborough's record 178.660 m.p.h., set last year, will be broken several times.

Whoever is fastest in the opening day of qualifying gets the pole position and $5,000. Second fastest will get the other front row starting spot.

The third fastest and all the rest who qualify will be running for places in a pair of 100-mile races Feb. 24, which in turn will determine the field to begin the Daytona 500 behind the front pair.

Plymouth and Dodge, which with their hemi-head engines dominated the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) super-speedway events last year, have tough competition this time from the lighter weight Ford Fairlane and Mercury Cyclone models with wedge engines.

Chevilles, made by Chevrolet, are in the field but without General Motors factory help aren't rated in the top class. One exception might be a Chevrolet set up by Snokey Yunkin of Daytona Beach and driven by Curtis Turner of Charlotte, N.C.

In addition to NASCAR late model qualifying, the Sunday program will have a pair of 25-mile sprints by another set of late model cars — not quite as extensively prepared — of the Automobile Racing Club of America, a predominantly mid-west racing circuit.

The 25-mile ARCA events will line up places for the ARCA 250 championship event Feb. 19.

PALMYRA, N.Y. — The picture-postcard of Palmyra, N.Y. was mailed to the JOURNAL after a picture caption proclaimed that Jacksonville had the only intersection in the world with a church on all four corners. Look closely at the upper left corner of the reproduction and you can see four church steeples. Palmyra also has an intersection with a church on all four corners.

Robert Ripley Said—But Watch Out When You Go Quoting Him

Remember Charlie Moore?
He's the fellow who said that there never was a pecan tree in Illinois.

Well, for the past few weeks I know a little how Charlie Moore felt when the good people of Illinois set him straight that pecan trees do grow in Illinois.

Several weeks ago when the Central Baptist church steeple was torn down, my camera was in focus to catch the historic event in progress.

Now, the Journal Courier subscribes to the photo service supplied by United Press International, and anytime that something "newsy" pops here, we normally send a picture to the UPI bureau photo chief Dick Adjan in Springfield.

Well, Richard was real interested in the church steeple picture and suggested that we write a caption and send the picture over to him.

Here's how
That's where it all started.
The caption that accompanied the picture was:

118-67—Jacksonville, Ill.: The steeple of the Central Baptist church begins its descent and crashes to the ground ending what residents claim as the only intersection in the world with a church on all four corners. The 31-year-old church will be replaced on another site.

It must have been one of those days when news pictures were hard to come by, because Richard shipped the picture off to all points on the UPI circuit.

About four days later, the "Newspaper Office, Jacksonville, Ill." received the following:

St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 20 — The enclosed picture appeared in the St. Petersburg TIMES, January 19. Just to set you straight, I want to tell you that in the village of Palmyra, N.Y., there is a church on all four corners of an intersection.

Yours Very Truly, Mrs. Paul Graham.

More
And a few days later:
Rochester, N.Y., Jan. 26 — The "Daily News" of New York dated Jan. 19th carried pictures of Jacksonville's Central Baptist church being razed.

I'm very sorry to disillusion your townspeople in believing that you are the only town or city in the world (probably) with a church on each corner of an intersection.

The enclosed picture-postcard will give you proof of my claim that Palmyra, N.Y., shares your honor.

Continued good health and Jersey Teen Proves He's 100% U.S.

JERSEYVILLE — Bob DeSherlia, 17-year-old youth born in Korea, received his naturalization papers from Springfield this week. The Jerseyville youth is listed as the first applicant for citizenship to receive a 100% grade on the 150 questions asked during the written examination.

The questions cover in digest form facts relative to the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Illinois. As a result of no other papers being available, his birthplace is listed as Seoul, Korea.

When he was six years of age, he and his parents sought to escape from Communist-controlled China. The family with others, came under Communist fire at the 28th parallel, and very few got through. After leaving the hospital, he was placed in an orphanage where he remained for two years. He made friends with men in the military forces and was subsequently adopted by a Jersey County Serviceman, Claude DeSherlia, who was stationed at 8th Army Headquarters.

Unofficial totals show that the issue was defeated 341 to 236 and passed in only one of three precincts. Voters at Bath approved the measure with 158 yes votes, 133 no. At Lynchburg it was 38 yes, 64 no; in Kilbourne 40 yes, 144 no.

High Rise Rises!

MOVED from a job in Los Angeles, The Buckley Construction Co., contractors for the high rise apartment building for the elderly, moved a giant electric crane into position at the site Friday. The boom was raised into position to allow workmen to lift construction materials to the top of the future ten-story structure. Two operating cabs contain identical controls, the second one 115 feet above ground. The crane is capable of lifting materials 206 feet above ground with the upper boom at a 75-degree angle. The crane lifts up to ten tons from the ground.

TWO FEET of deflection between the ground and the top is not uncommon for the special crane. From this position, the deflection becomes quite apparent.

STEEL RAILS were installed for the crane to move back and forth between the twin-tower structure. The high rise building is part of a low-rent program to provide housing for the elderly. The Morgan County Housing Authority is administering federal funds to build the structure. The top of the giant crane is visible in nearly all sections of the city. The high rise is located at the corner of West Beecher and South West Street.

Scariano-Rose Bill For Open Public Meetings Deserves Full Support

While we do not always agree with the liberal views of State Representative Tony Scariano, former Illinois College student, we are happy that his Cook county district returned him to the legislature last fall despite the opposition of powerful union leaders and the Daley machine. Almost unique among Chicago area Democrats, Scariano has repeatedly demonstrated a politically courageous independence of thought and action. Last year we pointed out these politically courageous qualities when endorsing him for appointment to the federal bench.

Now he is spearheading a bill to strengthen existing laws designed to require meetings of governmental bodies to be open to the public and the news media. At Scariano's request Representative Thomas C. Rose of Jacksonville is a co-sponsor of the bill. We agree with them completely. Too often city councils, village boards, school boards and other public units have resorted to "executive sessions" or "committees of the whole," as a means of conducting their real business in secret. Regrettably this has been true in our own immediate region. Journal Courier reporters have, for example, found it extremely difficult to get information about the proceedings of the South Jacksonville Village Board.

There are many times, too, when it appears that the local city council has thrashed out privately matters of considerable importance in advance of the public meeting. When the meeting is officially opened everything seems pretty much "cut and dried." We believe, however, that there has been improvement in this area. Most city officials recognize and respect the right of the public to know how their business is being conducted. The WLDS broadcasts, live on FM direct from the council chambers, have been very helpful in enabling local citizens to share information, arguments and discussion on vital local issues.

As Thomas Jefferson long ago said,

"The basis of our government being the opinion of the people — the way to prevent irregular interpositions of the people is to give them full information of their affairs through the channel of public papers, and to contrive that those papers should penetrate the whole mass of the people."

What Abe Lincoln Said

Some who stand before the awesome statue of Abraham Lincoln that gazes down in the capital's memorial to our 16th president may come away feeling that Lincoln is a remote and legendary figure in our national history. This is understandable, but it should not be forgotten that even in our time the character and deeds and words of this surpassingly great American have pertinence and immediacy. On this anniversary of his birth, it is fitting to ponder how Lincoln speaks to us still across the eventful century since his death.

The words that have come down to us, often almost biblical in thought and style, comprise a significant part of our national heritage. The wealth of this heritage enables one to come upon eloquent expression of ideas relating to many of the great concerns of our day.

These words pregnant with meaning for our time are not always to be found just in the more celebrated passages — in the inaugural addresses, the immortal speech at Gettysburg, and others that come to mind. Sometimes they are discovered in a letter, in remarks to a caller at the White House, in impromptu remarks to some gathering or other.

The great addresses are worth yet another reading. There is profit, too, in browsing through collections of what Lincoln had to say — on democracy, on the proper function of government, on human nature and the human condition — as his natal date brings him again briefly to the forefront of the mind. Even in our hurried world, it is good to rub the touchstone of greatness from times long past.

Romney Crams On World Issues

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

LANSING, Mich. (NEA) — It has come to no public notice, but early in January Michigan's Governor George Romney had an intensive, day-long meeting at his Bloomfield Hills home with Harvard University's famed international affairs expert, Prof. Henry A. Kissinger.

The meeting, which by design was more a Kissinger moment, actually, it has already been decided not to take on an "in-house" scholar who would, in effect, be at the governor's elbow. Naturally enough, there was a substantial treatment of the difficult Vietnam situation.

erates sympathetic to the Romney cause, some are counselling urgency in the choice not only of a foreign policy liaison man but of other professionals as well. A quest is under way for a national campaign press secretary and for some key political tacticians.

Prominent among these, as mentioned in a prior column, are Dr. Gaylord Parkinson, former California GOP chairman, and F. Clifton White, the real estate scholar who would, in effect, be at the governor's elbow. Naturally enough, there was a substantial treatment of the difficult Vietnam situation.

Timely Quotes

Let us not expect to sing the victor's song unless we are willing to risk the harsh notes of tragic loss and personal sacrifice. — Rev. Conrad Winborn, eulogizing the ill-fated Apollo 1 astronauts.

Sources of pollution may be environmental villains, but they are also social and economic necessities. — President John F. Kennedy, outlining the dilemma to Congress.

Thoughts

There are those who are still promoting to the bitter end of various Victorian methods of treating schizophrenia, presumably in the belief that it is possible to make an insane man sane with a therapy that would drive any sane man mad. — Khalil Samra, president of the American Schizophrenia Foundation, which supports research into the chemical basis of the mental disease.

Yet the moderates who are eager to get rolling are tantalized by this situation. Many feel that Romney absolutely must have a man of White's caliber and knowledge at the strategy level.

It was evident at the Republican National Committee meeting in New Orleans that Romney's political allies — and numerous figures who might join them under the right circumstances — believe time is all too short. Soundings in Lansing indicate the governor himself now may grasp the need for speed in surrounding his campaign effort with vital professional assistance.

FINDING THE WAY

By DR. LUCY

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D., Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
A. A. Milne once told of a worried mother who wanted to protect her son as he started off for the war. She purchased a coat of mesh which she wanted him to wear under his shirt. It was a poignant story and anyone with a young man or young woman in the household understands the plight. Each generation seems to match the young against fearful odds and, in a clumsy way, each generation tries to arm them with some ancient outer garment.

It was that way with the dinosaurs. They knew about coats of mail and they tried to match them against evolutionary changes. Now they are remembered in museums where their bones are strung together. Meanwhile, other forms of life have survived. One wonders whether this is the fate of those who put their trust in superior armaments. Are we as foolish as a mother wanting to garb her son in 17th-century armor?

History has often called upon men to rethink their situation. It was that way with Abraham Lincoln in 1862 when he stood before Congress to state: "The dogmas of the quiet past are inadequate to the stormy present. The occasion is piled high with difficulty, and we must rise with the occasion. As our case is new, so we must think anew and act anew. We must disenthrall ourselves, and then we shall save our country."

Whether we actually did think anew is still an historical question and debate. Nonetheless, the Union was saved and men believed that they "would either nobly save or meanly lose, the last best hope of earth." One hundred and five years later we are still trying to rethink those challenges to a way of life. We know now that just to end the Civil War was not enough. We know how many unsolved problems still launt our imagination and our resolve.

It isn't a coat of mesh but a continuing commitment to this thinking out of our situation that protects our young and encourages our children. Youth is a time of dreams as well as disillusionment. Among the young are both idealists and vandals. There are volunteers for the Peace Corps and yet one in 10 suicides in the United States is among this generation.

In a time when there is a confusion about our role as a nation, it is easy to understand why we would like to solve everything by contriving coats of mesh. It would be better to remember that there are times to remember our history, understand the dogmas of the past and learn how to reinterpret them in the situations of this moment. We can't give youth a coat of mesh; we can give them our own commitment to think anew and act anew. "We must disenthrall ourselves and then we shall save our country."

Diseases of the heart and blood vessels are responsible for more deaths in this country than all other diseases and causes combined.

Morgan Conservation District Reports A Banner Year

Morgan county men and women interested in soil and water management — 141 of them — gathered Wednesday night for a fine dinner at the Centenary Methodist church and to learn how they did in the past 12 months.

Joe Graham, USDA and SCS conservationist, reported that he and his assistant, Marvin D. Zulauf, and their ever-ready gal Friday, Virginia Neff, helped the farmers of Morgan county to do such as this:

Brand new cooperators — 9.
Farmers now cooperating, although quite a few of them wish they could do more — 280.
Ten fish ponds were built, and just as many were stocked with bass, bluegills and catfish; 215 acres that had been growing in first class weeds was put into improved pasture — at a heavy cost to the owner but one that had an Ace High chance of paying off.

Some of the folks sitting at the head table are shown above. They are, from left:
Robert Walker of the University of Illinois Extension soil conservation department — the speaker of the evening; Mrs. E. H. Garlich, you can't see her in the photo because the JOURNAL COURIER farm editor is dedicated to her extreme and wonderful welfare because he inadvertently — that means accidentally — referred to her age some 10-12 years ago.

Next man is her ever-loving husband, E. H. Garlich, gave a most fitting memorial address on the deaths of R. E. Stocker and John McFadden, two district board members who were killed last spring in a traffic accident on their way to Springfield and a meeting of conservation minded folks just like themselves.

Next on the photo are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sayre and Mrs. Irl Henderson.
Henderson decided that he wanted to retire from the board, and Earl Wright of Murrayville was chosen to succeed him.
Earl Myers, an unpaid coun-unpaid — was elected to serve another three year term.

Story Of Agriculture The Largest Exhibit At Montreal's Fair

MONTREAL, Canada—The agricultural exhibit at Expo 67, which opens April 28 will cover the complete range of agricultural science from ancient times to the present. Exhibits will deal with soils, animals, mechanization, crops, and dramatic displays of man's struggle to feed the world's expanding population.

The site, covering seven-and-a-half acres, will be the largest single exhibit at Expo 67; it will contain 10 separate pavilions covering all phases of agricultural business and farm management.

The soil section will show the origin and structure of soils and how they are maintained as a permanent resource. There will be displays of soil classification and of uses of soils for crops. Examples will demonstrate the before-and-after effect of using fertilizers, as well as the different systems of irrigation known to man. There will also be an exhibit showing how man is combatting erosion.

The crop pavilion will illustrate how plants such as wheat, oats and barley are improved by breeding, and how modern science is providing means for protection of crops from diseases, insect pests and weeds. An important display will chart the increase in food production through use of modern technology. Problems of feeding the exploding world population will be graphically illustrated, showing that with modern methods, man gains higher yields per acre and greater land utilization than ever before.

In the mechanization pavilion there will be dynamic exhibits to show how man, by availing himself of improved farm machinery, has been able to obtain more crops with less human labor. This story will be told in terms of the development of agricultural equipment. There will be areas exhibiting the complexities of modern farm machinery and uses of the different machines.

There will be three animal pavilions. One will show developments in animal breeding, crossbreeding in commercial production, as well as uses of artificial insemination to bring about rapid herd improvement. A transparent cow, made from plastic, will show the efficiency of the ruminant in manufacturing human food from roughages that are of little use for direct human consumption. Important advances made in recent years in animal feeding will be interpreted in terms of food production, illustrating cooperation between farmers, scientists, manufacturers and engineers.

The role of the veterinarian in prevention of animal diseases will be demonstrated to highlight the need for further action in development of animal health legislation.

A fully-mechanized dairy herd will exhibit four of the most important dairy breeds in the process of giving milk (which will also be processed).

Among the displays in the second animal pavilion will be a completely automated egg factory showing how the maximum number of eggs can be obtained by using modern equipment and feeding techniques.

An Executive The role of the individual farmer will be shown as that of a business executive, rather than that of the traditional "farmer" prototype. Science, marketing and automation in the service of production and profits will be illustrated, as well as the use of computers—a recent addition to agricultural production.

Expo 67's Agricultural Pavilion will be the first at an international exhibition to show farming and the agricultural sciences in comprehensible form to urban dwellers. As the largest exhibit of its kind, it will likely be the pioneer for future agricultural exhibits, both in Canada and throughout the world.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

CORN STOCKS SHRINK 9 PERCENT

We get a new look at the corn situation near the end of January each year when the USDA reports stocks of grains on hand January 1.

The report this year showed that stocks of corn totaled 3,663 million bushels, 9 percent less than a year earlier. Of this total, 2,885 million bushels were on farms, 6 percent less than a year before.

Some of the reduction of farm stocks reflects reduced amounts of corn held under price support-resale programs. The amount of corn under resale was 281 million bushels, down 21 percent from last year. The amount of new corn put under price support by January 1 was 110 million bushels, 8 percent more than a year earlier. Increased field shelling and early marketing reduced farm stocks.

On January 1, the CCC had only 36 million bushels of unsold corn on hand, just one-sixth as much as a year before. The CCC can, however, get more corn by calling the loans on some of the old corn now under resale-price support loans.

Disappearance Increases 6 Percent
The disappearance of corn during the October-December quarter totaled 1,281 million bushels, 6 percent more than last year. Disappearance is calculated by taking the supply on sight on October 1, and subtracting the amount left on January 1.

About 11 percent of the total disappearance during the quarter was in exports. These totaled about 138 million bushels, down 24 percent from the previous year.

Exports shrunk even more in early January. Inspections for export during the first two weeks of the month were only 17 million bushels, off 40 percent from the 1966 pace.

Several reasons have been suggested for the decrease in exports: (1) European countries, which are the largest buyers, had bigger crops in 1966 than in 1965; (2) Our corn is priced higher than last year; and (3) The quality of our corn is not as good as it was a year ago.

Other Price Factors
Other, recent price-depressing news has included: (1) Reports that feed crops in Argentina and South Africa are growing well, and (2) Indications that the big increases in the production of hogs and broilers is about over. The report of Cattle on Feed January 1, however, was bullish. It showed that farmers were feeding 11.3 million cattle for slaughter, 7 percent more than a year before.

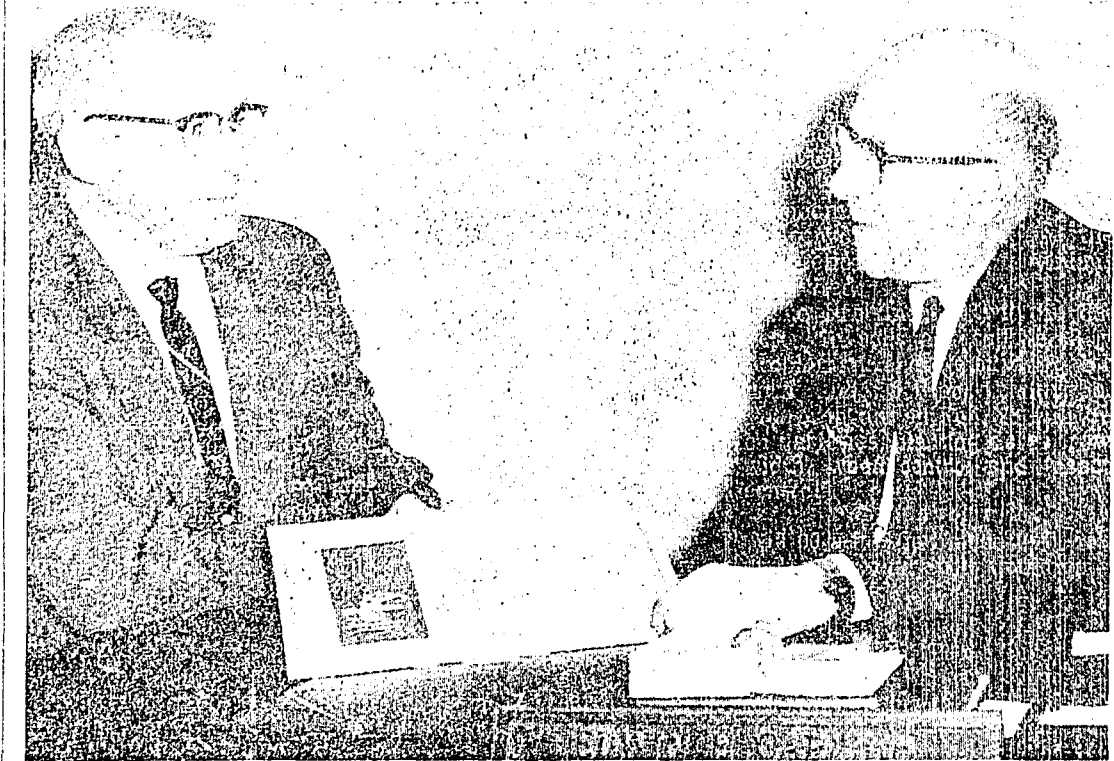

Corn processors probably used about the same amount during the October-December quarter as a year before — 90 million bushels.

The remaining disappearance, mostly fed to livestock, totaled 1,053 million bushels. This reflects a surprisingly large increase of 12 percent over the year-before figure. It may have been inflated by unavoidable errors in estimates — such as too large figures for the carryover, or for the 1966 crop; a too-small figure for stocks on hand January 1; or some combination of such errors.

Farm Mortgage Loan 'Generator'

Edwin H. Garlich, assistant vice president and farm manager of Elliott State bank, has been selected as one of the Top-Ten farm loan correspondents for 1966 by The Equitable Life Assurance society of the U.S.

A special citation honoring Garlich's achievement was presented to him Wednesday by Earl F. Parsons of Galesburg, (seen left), who is Equitable's farm loan appraiser for this area.

Annually each of Equitable's regional farm loan managers selects ten outstanding loan correspondents for recognition based on both volume and quality of service rendered to the farming community. Equitable is one of the largest farm mortgage lenders in the country, advancing more than $116 million during 1966. The total amount outstanding in farm loans nationwide now exceeds $705 million according to E. E. McLean, Equitable vice president.

Parsons is out of the Chicago office of the insurance firm, and it handles loans in Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana and the western section of Ohio.

There are 750 correspondent banks in this area.

It is the fifth time that Garlich has won this distinction and plaque in the nine years that he has been farm manager of the Elliott bank.

Parsons said that his company "still has some money for A-1 farm mortgages, although quite a few companies have run out of money. But now, since last October, we have had to charge 6 1/2 per cent interest."

Arrange Corn, Soybean Clinic At Jerseyville

JERSEYVILLE — A two-day corn and soybean clinic has been planned for farmers in this area to be held in Jerseyville, Feb. 14 and Feb. 21. The meetings will be held in the Farm Bureau auditorium from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., on both days by specialists from the University of Illinois.

The clinic will be of particular interest to the locality as the corn and soybean crops of the area represent a four million dollar proposition.

Local dealers in fertilizers are providing for the free lunches that will be served during each meeting, and are being requested to invite their customers to the meetings.

On Feb. 14 the program will cover soils, management based on soil properties, what's new in fertilizers and fertilizing corn and soybeans.

The loans Garlich originated for the insurance firm amounted to slightly more than $200,000 for the year, ranging in size from $60,000 down to $5,000. Most of them were for the purpose of settling estates and buying adjoining land to increase the size of the farm operation.

Before the photographer left Garlich and Parsons were busy at work trying to decide whether a Morgan county farm family should be granted a loan of $6,000.

Wheat, Feed Grains Signup Period On

Again, farmers are reminded that participation in the 1967 wheat program is not automatic. They must sign up in the program to receive benefits. Sign-up is now in progress in the Morgan County ASCS office and the final date for enrolling in the program is March 3.

The wheat producer (who also produces feed grains) may sign up in either or both programs during this period. Substitution of wheat for feed grain, or vice versa, permits greater flexibility in planting. To be eligible for wheat program benefits, a producer must:

1. Sign up to participate in the program before the closing date, Friday, March 3.
2. Have an acreage of wheat no larger than your allotment (or no larger than you are permitted when you substitute); and maintain your farm conserving base which was reduced so you could plant your increased allotment.
3. Keep within the wheat allotment on any other farm in which you have an interest.

Pork Producers To Hear Beckett

All pork producers are invited to attend a dinner meeting to be held at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 20, at the Ranch House in Jacksonville. Carman Potter, president of the Morgan County Pork Producers, is inviting all who may be interested to come and hear John Beckett, of Gillespie tell about his meat-type hog operation, and how it has benefited him financially.

The association will be making plans for "Morgan County Swine Evaluation Day," scheduled for Monday, Feb. 27, at the Woodson Sale Barn. Other items on the program will include awards to 4-H members, contest for the 1967 pork cook-out, and plans for a membership drive.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil has a nationwide production goal of 67,350,000 bags of sugar for 1966-67.

DOS AND DON'T OF WINTER DRIVING

Do—
Keep extra distance between you and the car ahead, at least a car length for each ten miles of speed. It takes longer to stop on ice and snow.

Keep your windows clear. Poor visibility is a prime winter hazard.

Dim your headlights when meeting cars.

Remember it takes longer to stop on ice at higher temperatures than zero.

Don't—
Jam on your brakes suddenly. Pump them gently.

Push the gas pedal to the floor to get out of a snowy rut. Sand and a shovel is the easy cure.

Drive off after starting your car until it has a minute or so to warm at fast idle.

DON'T turn your ignition key until you fasten your seat belt.

Now you should...

...Keep livestock warm and dry.

...Provide plenty of water for livestock.

...Prune.

...Sell cattle.

...Enjoy extra daylight.

...Buy Valentines.

...Watch the waistline.

...Forget and forgive.

A bank examiner made this comment about farmers:

"Today's farmers who cannot or will not project income and expenses, who cannot recognize the sources of profit or loss in his business, and who does not have a general operating plan for the season is not going to be successful or even survive."

He also stated that "it is possible that even more money is made or more money is lost at the desk of the farmer than by the degree of manual work he puts into his operations."

Forecasts and planning are important.

4-H Officers Attend School

The newly elected officers of the Morgan county 4-H clubs are all geared up to make this year the best in the annals of the movement.

Wednesday night 105 of them arrived at the Extension Center east of Jacksonville to attend the annual Officers' Training School.

Robert Worrell of Winchester, long a prime factor in club work, instructed the club presidents as to their duties.

George Trull, local farm adviser, coached the vice presidents and Glenn Spencer of the Production Credit association, trade and co-op trade, a heavy hand over Taiwan's foreign trade which require an outflow of payments from the Free Chinese government. But in recent years the balance of trade has been improving with the result that the clamps on imports have been relaxed but not removed.

Purchase of grain is handled through government agencies which then allocate the imports to domestic millers and processors. With the initial sale handled by the government, however, the first step in improving trade climate between Illinois and Taiwan must be through the government channels. The Farm Bureau trade mission took initial steps here to begin those negotiations.

Just how big can the market for Illinois farm produce become here in Taiwan?

Economy Rising
First of all, the island is one-fourth the size of the state of Illinois but only 33 per cent of the land area is tillable. The rest is too mountainous. Secondly, Taiwan's imports will grow only as fast as its exports will permit if the present financial policy prevails and that is like-

4-H CLUBS RALLY AT FARMAZ HALL

The annual rally for the younger 4-H club members and prospective members will be held Wednesday evening, Feb. 22, at Our Saviour's gymnasium on East State street, beginning at 7 p.m. and closing at 9.

This event is for boys and girls 9 through 14 years old. The rally for the older members will be held later this winter.

The committee in charge consists of Marney Rawlings, chairman; Mike Kershaw, North Side Seniors; Virginia Johnson, Alexander Girls; Steve Maurer, Lynnville Hustlers, and Ella Monroe, East Side Juniors.

Illinois Farmers See Prospects Of Trade With Taiwan Island

By WILLIAM W. ALLEN

TAIPEI, Taiwan—Taiwan may well be on the brink of becoming a good market for Illinois farm products, members of the Illinois Agricultural Association World Trade and Production Mission learned here.

This small island, where nearly 14 million people live on about 14,000 square miles, has shown amazing agricultural progress in Asia. The economy of Taiwan is improving rapidly but the ability of the island to feed itself becomes more and more strained as the population increases and as the increased earnings of the people lead to increases in demand for high quality food.

Rice, of course, is the mainstay in the diet but Taiwan produces a surplus of good quality rice which it exports mostly to Japan. Other agricultural exports include bananas, sugar, mushrooms, garden vegetables, and fruit. Basic to the Chinese diet, though, is pork. Today farmers are producing about three million hogs annually and are looking for an increase of four million head by 1970. Principal ingredient in hog feed here is the sweet potato plant which this subtropical island grows in abundance but animal nutrition experts point out that feed conversion ratios — the amount of feed required to produce one pound of gain — are not good and that farmers on Taiwan need high protein supplements to improve their hog feeding program.

Though the prospects are good for trade between Taiwan and Illinois, the Illinois farmer looking for markets will have to adopt a form of oriental tradition and exercise patience. Within the next few years, the market for American farm produce will become better here in Taiwan but the immediate prospects promise nothing startling.

Need Feed Grains
Dr. Robert T. C. Lee, chief of the Animal Division of the Joint Commission on Rural Reconstruction of Taiwan, met with William J. Kuhlthuss, IAA president and leader of the mission. Dr. Lee told Kuhlthuss that Taiwan needs soybean meal.

Government restrictions which made it difficult to import American soybeans have recently been dropped after a 15-year campaign to reduce the tariff. Dr. Lee reported. He also said that the hog on the Chinese farm has long been a combination scavenger and fertilizer factory but now with Taiwan exporting grain in the form of rice, it must import grain and feed that grain to animals in order to maintain the fertility of the soil of Taiwan.

Fifty-five members completed the course this year, and about half of them will give demonstrations on certain phases of electricity Monday evening. The others will give their demonstrations at a regular meeting of their 4-H club.

ACROSS THE FIELDS AND FURROWS
with ED GARLICH
EXCERPTS FROM "REVELATIONS IN RETROSPECT FROM RECORDS OF ILLINOIS CLIMATOLOGY"

"The role of snow in our lives has undergone considerable modification since Grandfather's day. The heavy snows of Grandfather's memory have been magnified by both time and tubulation. Lack of mechanized equipment limited snow removal even in urban areas. Removal by rural residents was confined to what could be shoveled aside and most of the snow was trampled down and trod upon while waiting for a thaw. Snow obliteration today starts even before the flakes begin to fall. Much early falling snow is melted by the pre-spreading of salt and cinders. Mechanized snow clearance equipment seldom allows an appreciable accumulation on streets and highways. Snow removal in urban areas is a big business actuated by the forecast of snow instead of existing dormant until the storm subsides."

Most of this will have to be rewritten following the January 1967 experience.

Let's Go Birding

Robinhood

By Emma Mae Leonard
Cold January was here. The Mockingbird sat in the top of the leafless tree and gazed out into space. An orange sky was hanging behind black trees and lighting the background for this sleek gray bird perched in the top of the dead Elm Tree.

For an indefinite time the Mockingbird remained a part of this early cold silent Sunday morning. All motion of the town remained cold and dead; black and gray, impenetrable to any moon or star or sun, seemed to envelop the sleeping houses and streets and shops.

Then a voice burst forth from among the bleak twigs overhead in the lifeless Elm. In full-hearted song the Mockingbird flung its soul upon the crystal cold. Although it seemed to have little cause for song, it spoke of some hope whereof it knew and we were unaware. (Could it be coaxing winter to be spring?)

Perhaps it had found a kind of optimism unknown to man and was broadcasting to anyone who was listening on this early Sunday morning the following greeting: "Oh winter, cold and bleak as you are, all unlovely and dreaded by man, I still love you."

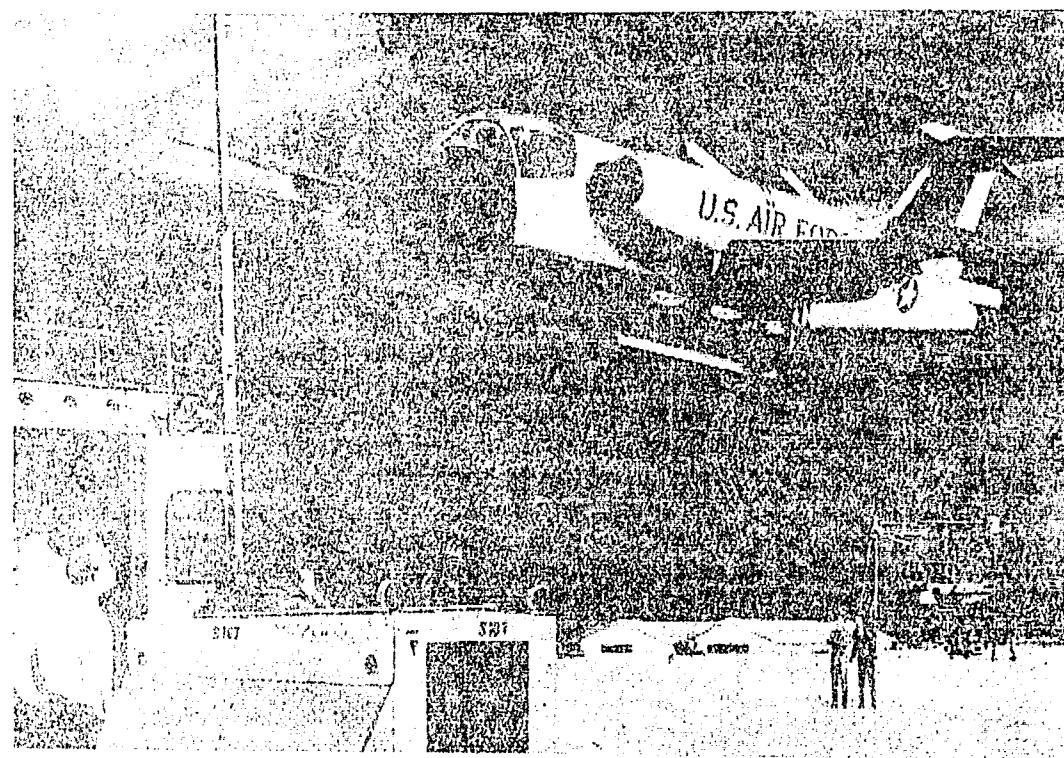

I have said "perhaps," for who really knows the mystery of bird song, particularly that of the Mockingbird? This Mockingbird? This Mockingbird is a veritable Robin Hood, robbing the few bird singers of their simple carols and distributing them in a melody for the many of us human beings to enjoy. Lest we listeners might not recognize at first each bird song which he has stolen, he repeats it usually at least three times, throws in a comment of his own, and shifts to another stolen ditty. What a scamp he is, but what a lovable one!

Although we may associate the Mockingbird with the South, we can now claim it as a permanent resident in our area. It also sings all the year round but more lavishly in the spring. When it sometimes floods the moonlight nights with endless carols, Robin Hood never forgets us who are hungry for his song.

JET HUMMINGBIRD

By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

The Air Force Flight Dynamics Laboratory has picked North American Aviation, Inc. and Lockheed-Georgia Co. to develop the XV-4B Hummingbird VTOL (Vertical Take-Off and Landing) plane shown above.

The XV-4B will carry a two-man crew seated side by side. The new aircraft will have six of the General Electric fanjet engines. Four for lift only and two for lift and forward propulsion. The four jets for lift are mounted in the fuselage (body) of the plane and the two cruise engines are mounted on each side.

Work on the XV-4B has already begun and the first flight of the plane is scheduled for late this year. A five months test program will then be carried out by Lockheed. The Air Force will then turn the plane over to North American for research and development of handling qualities and control systems for VTOL aircraft.

Weights 12,850 Pounds
The six engines of the XV-4B lift the 12,850 pound plane into the air with 13,000 pounds of thrust. The plane is 33 feet, 9 inches long and has a wing span of 27 feet one inch.

The XV-4B is one more step in the continuing development of VTOL (Vertical and Short Take-Off and Landing) aircraft, which has been going on since 1949. It will combine the speed of a jet fighter with the ability of a helicopter to hover. Eventually the Air Force hopes to have some similar plane in service.

Useful In Vietnam
In Vietnam the XV-4B's ability to hover would make it possible for the pilots to pinpoint their targets more accurately. Then they could zoom away at jet speed before the enemy guns could line up on them.

On returning to base the XV-4B's ability to land and take off vertically would eliminate the need for long jet runways which are difficult to construct and draw fire from the Viet Cong. The Navy could also put VTOL aircraft to good use since they could take off from carrier decks without the use of catapults and land without hooking onto arresting cables.

Helpful At Home
VTOL aircraft will also be useful in civilian transportation. The slower, propeller driven VTOL's can be used to ferry passengers from airports to the center of the city, as helicopters are used now in New York.

Jet VTOL's similar to the XV-4B, could be used to bring jet service to small towns, like Jacksonville, where the big jet airliners cannot land.

THE CAVE MYSTERY

By John Rankin

Ed saw the mouth of the great cave gaping wide and awesome, looking in the warm afternoon sun. He heard the trickle of running water somewhere inside and drew back startled momentarily as the shadow of a bald eagle soaring overhead crossed his path.

Impressed by the quietness of the vast surrounding hills, Ed paused briefly to feel the softness of the flower-scented, spring-like breeze on his boyish face and then glanced around at his youthful pal trudging up the narrow, winding trail behind him.

"We're a long way from home, Benny. Think we should turn back now?" Benny glanced around at the sun dipping toward a hill to the west and moved up closer to the yawning mouth of the cave. "It'd be a crime to turn back now after hiking all the way up here," he declared. "Since we're here why don't we look around in there just a little bit, maybe?"

Indians?
Ed was thoughtful a moment. "I'm not so sure about that," he said with a tone of caution in his voice. "Might still be Indians living in there or even outlaw bands. My dad says most anything can happen to a guy in that old cave."

"Oh who's afraid of such things as Indians and outlaws?" Benny said with a gesture of boldness. "I'm not, and I'm going in even if you don't!"

"Then I'm going in too," Ed declared, and together they approached a little closer and hesitated a moment as though uncertain of their next move.

Then pulling on warm jackets and with flashlights in hand, they cautiously stepped out of the warmth and glitter of bright sunlight into the inner dark and chill of the great cave.

Crystal Chamber
Spellbound by a natural beauty unlike anything they had ever seen, the boys remained motionless for several moments as their eyes swept in the splendor and luster of the underground chamber. Great clusters of a crystal-clear formation hung from its walls like icicles from a giant waterfall. A tiny stream of sparkling water trickling down from someplace overhead danced about in a rock basin and then flowed quietly on to disappear somewhere. An eerie stillness hung everywhere, and bones of prehistoric animals left by inhabitants of an earlier age lay bleached and scattered about over the floor like sticks of driftwood washed ashore and left to dry in the wind and sun.

Captivated by all of this Ed and Benny spent the greater part of an hour viewing the miracles left by nature and then went through an opening or doorway of sorts to explore another room of much the same splendor. They spent considerable time here, too, and then turned their attention to a glimmer of light beckoning at the far end of a narrow tunnel or passageway leading off to the right.

"Can't Happen In My Town"

By Christine Hemmrough

You've heard of the drug LSD before. You've read about people being caught with it in Los Angeles and New York. You say, "It isn't in my town." Don't be too sure.

A couple not far from Jacksonville was just recently arrested on having access to another drug, marijuana. I didn't think that was in my town either. But it is!

What is LSD? What does it do?

Lysergic acid diethylamide is its medical description, but it is commonly called LSD. It is derived from a fungus substance that grows on plants, especially rye. It is colorless, tasteless, and odorless when dissolved in water. It is a stimulant; thus psychiatrists use a tranquilizer such as thiorazine as an antidote for LSD.

Hallucinations
Three states — New York, California, and Michigan have passed legislation aimed at controlling the sale, distribution, and possession of hallucinogenic drugs, particularly LSD.

Originally the drug was seen as a possible aid in treatment of mental and emotional disorders. It was found accidentally by an experimenter. It was designed to be used in psychiatric pathology to determine if chemical imbalance causes certain mental disorders such as schizophrenia, dementia praecox and paranoia.

A Swiss scientist discovered LSD by accident in 1938. Later when he accidentally inhaled some of the drug's fumes he reported on its visual effects saying, he had "fantastic visions of extraordinary vividness accompanied by a kaleidoscopic display of intense coloration."

Instant Insanity
What does it do to the user? According to one person it causes instant insanity. Time and space are distorted, colors are said to explode brilliantly and moods range from ecstasy to deep depression and panic. It could permanently alter the brain. It generally heightens perception and produces hallucinations.

Many disturbing incidents have been reported of LSD users.

One case of two men sitting on a front lawn eating grass and the bark of trees. And a twenty-two year old man was found kneeling in shallow water shouting "I love you."

LSD is extremely dangerous in the opinion of qualified authorities.

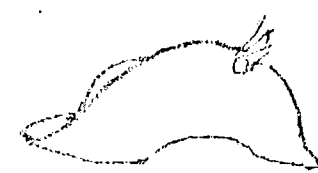

What can we do about it? What will become of it? These and many questions are left up

American History Month

Revolutionary War

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

Children of the 1860s who belonged to "The Washingtonians" had little token hatchets of silver like the one shown here. On one side of the handle were the words "I did it with my hatchet," and the other side read "I cannot tell a lie." A loop could hold the hatchet on a chain. They often wore tricorn hats like the one here. These 1860 children were in the century after the American Revolution and a century before our present day.

Rare Letter
Henry Sewell of Augusta, Maine, a General in the Revolutionary War, wrote the following letter to his son William who had gone to Washington D.C. to seek his fortune as a young secretary. The letter is dated January 31, 1821, and was part of the appendix added to "The Diary of William Sewell" a book now long out of print.

"Now if I may be allowed to compare small things with great, military with civil, past with present, perhaps I might think I had witnessed a specimen, at least, of that confusion which you describe, occasioned by greeting, crowding, squeezing, and jostling and particularly when the French Soldiers advanced, whom no obstacle could prevent from bowing and scraping with homage and respect to the illustrious Washington, who stood at one end of the bower, to be seen, greeted and respected, the pride of the auxiliary as well as of the American forces."

"But perhaps I have dwelt more than enough on scenes whose principal importance is derived from splendor and parade."

Prayer Poem
Comely Explanation

By Mary Pence Claywell
"I have not seen the splendid levee of the President of the United States at Washington, yet I have frequently attended the less splendid but perhaps not less interesting levees of General Washington."

"While General Rochambeau's army was encamped with ours toward the close of the Revolutionary War, in the State of New York on North River, our place of assembling was not like the magnificent hall, you describe at Washington with its superb appendages, no particolor carpeting, the work of peaceful art to sustain our weary feet, no scarlet curtains to transmit the softened rays of light, without chandeliers, without wine or music, without ladies."

Military Levee
It was a temporary bower erected for the purpose, sufficiently dense overhead to shield from the heat of the sun, but not from the rain, supported by rows of pillars artificially clothed with verdure, from whose open arches we received the pure light of Heaven, and its area sufficiently capacious to contain the mixed assemblage of visitors composing the levee, was perfectly covered with a carpet of native green.

Pike Couple Exchange Vows In Church Rites

GRIGGSVILLE — The Pittsfield Church of the Nazarene was the setting Friday evening, February third, for the wedding of Miss Connie Marie Burlend and Gary Phillips. The Reverend Cecil H. Carroll performed the double ring ceremony before an altar adorned with gladioli, palms and candelabra. Miss Linda Hammitt was soloist and Pat Burlend organist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Burlend, Sr. of Griggsville. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Phillips, also of Griggsville are the bridegroom's parents.

Beautification Project Begun In Winchester

By GEORGE MYERS
WINCHESTER — Twenty-two interested Scott county people attended the county-wide community beautification meeting last Monday evening in the Winchester First Christian church. William R. Nelson, Jr., University of Illinois Extension landscape architect, presented a very interesting and inspiring program. Using two projectors, he showed community beautification problems on one screen and on the second screen he showed how communities had overcome these problems. Because of the absence of natural beauty attraction in this part of Illinois, such as mountains, forests, and large bodies of fresh water, Nelson stressed the importance of developing the highest degree of our man-made environment. He pointed out the outstanding architecture of many of Scott county's fine old homes. These, he said, should be featured in the landscape design. Billboards and advertising signs are a blight on the landscape in all areas of the state and nation. Nelson encouraged the removal of all old and defaced signs and a concentrated effort to make necessary signs as attractive as possible. To further pursue this beautification project Nelson outlined a program of formal organization. The first step is to define and list improvements needed and natural or existing areas of beauty that need to be capitalized on. After the study committee has prepared this list a priority order needs to be established. This will be followed by an action program to complete the projects. Those volunteering to serve on the initial study committee are Miss Kathleen Hubbard, Mrs. Temple Grout and Charles Sykes. Mrs. Wayne Burns and Dan Likes will be cooperating with this group as representatives of the Scott County 4-H Federation council. Three additional members are to be selected to serve on the committee. One is to represent the Scott county government, the second will be representing the outlying southeast area of the county, and the third is to represent the business and city interest of Winchester. The home and farm adviser will be serving in an advisory capacity with this group. Any suggestions for community beautification should be submitted to this study committee for further consideration.

'Hog Evaluation Day' At Woodson Feb. 27

Plans are being completed for the 1967 Morgan County "Market Hog Evaluation Day" to be held Monday, Feb. 27, at the Woodson Sale Barn. It was announced last week by Richard DeOrnellas, chairman of the committee in charge. The purpose of the evaluation day program, which is sponsored by the local Pork Producers association and the Cooperative Extension Service, is to give farmers an opportunity to obtain important carcass cutout data on their hogs. There will be a judging contest at 1 p.m. for F.F.A. members and 4-H members as well as for adults. Trophies will be awarded to winners. There is a change in the classes offered this year in that there will be classes for both purebred and commercial hogs. The grading of the hogs will be done by Harry Russell, University of Illinois Extension specialist in animal science, and area Extension livestock specialist Richard Simms. Any Morgan County pork producer may enter. Information blanks, listing rules, schedule and classes and also entry blanks may be obtained at the County Extension office. Entries should be made by Friday, February 24. "Evaluation Day" will be followed by a meeting one week later, to be held at 7:30 p.m. March 6 at the Extension Center. This meeting will include a carcass discussion, announcement of winners, and other information on producing quality pork.

Fills State Office

Kenneth Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen of 135 Pine street, had an opportunity to "take over" the office of Director, Department of Financial Institutions, Feb. 7th in Springfield as 36 Eagle Scouts from the Boy Scout Councils in the State of Illinois celebrated State Citizenship Day. The event was held in conjunction with the 57th anniversary of Scouting at the nation celebrated Boy Scout Week, Feb. 7-13. The Scouts and Explorers were selected by their respective councils for outstanding leadership qualities and each had a chance to campaign for one of the eight elective state offices. An election was then held and results determined which Scout would fill each office. The balance were appointed by the Scout Governor to their various posts. Climaxing the three day event was the Tuesday luncheon where each Scout and his State office holder host, met with Governor Otto Kerner and was sworn into his office by Secretary of State Paul Powell. The afternoon was spent in the state capitol with each Scout taking over the job of his host in Illinois Government for the day. Kenneth is president of Explorer Post 150 sponsored by the Jacksonville Kiwanis Club and the Jacksonville Police department.

Bridge is not an exact science and never will be. We point out in "Win at Bridge with Jacoby and Son" that there is disagreement on how to respond to Blackwood when you are void of a suit.

The Jacoby method is to start by deciding if your void is a good one. Just what is a good void, anyway?

A good void is one in an unbid suit or in a suit that has been bid by your opponents. Now take a look at the bidding of today's hand. North has bid hearts and clubs and spades has become the agreed trump suit. South bids four no-trump and North is void of diamonds. It must be a good void. How can he show it?

Our method is to show the number of aces but to bid six instead of five. Thus, North responds six hearts to the Blackwood four no-trump. South knows that North has two aces and is void of a suit and from the bidding South knows the void is in diamonds. South can bid seven spades and be certain of success provided the opening lead isn't ruffed by East.

It looks as if South took a chance when he bid four no-trump with those three diamonds. It wasn't much of a chance. North had opened the bidding with one heart, had gone to three clubs over two spades, and then raised spades. South was prepared to gamble that North would not hold as many as two diamonds and would have gone to six spades if North had merely shown two aces.

A final word of caution. This is a fine bid but be sure you and your partner are in complete agreement before you start using it.

A—Bid six hearts. The three no-trump response shows, or should show, scattered strength. You have no scientific way to proceed and might just as well gamble for six.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

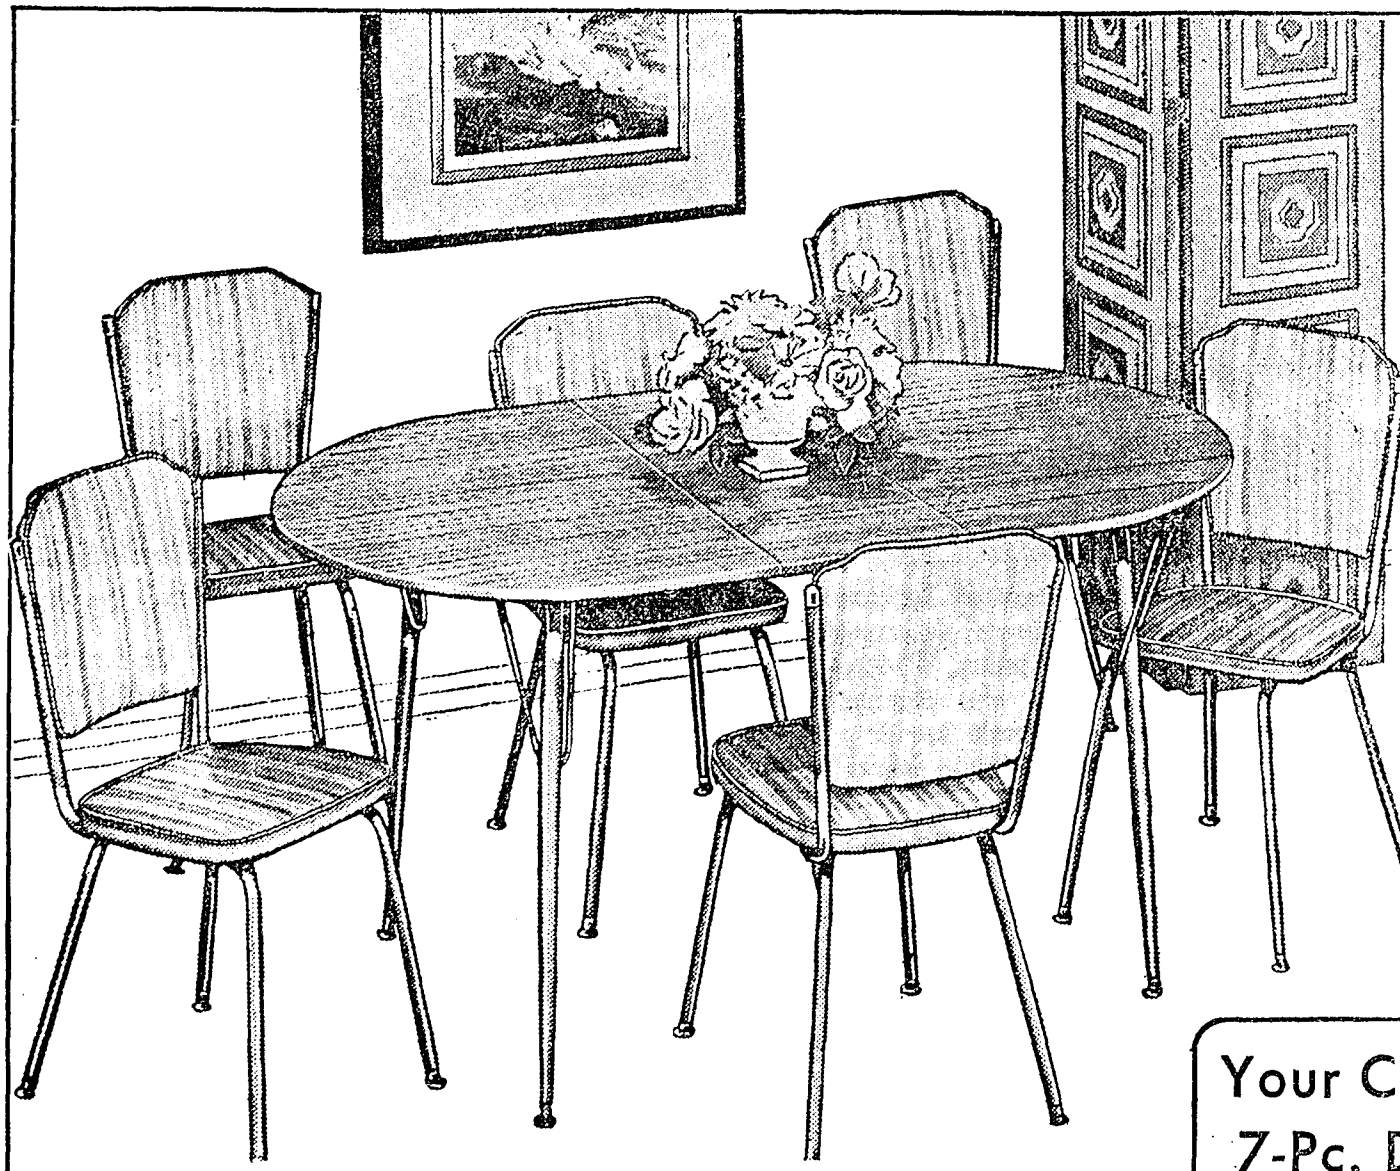

The Poet Laureate of England is the official poet of His Majesty's Court. He is responsible for producing appropriate verses for noted state occasions, says The World Almanac. Although no authentic record exists as to its origin, the post is known to have been held by Geoffrey Chaucer (1340-1400) who received a small pension and a yearly allowance of wine for his work. William Wordsworth and Alfred Tennyson were also Poets Laureate. Since 1930, the post has been held by John Masefield.

Liberal Tax Rules For Those Past 65

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Senior citizens — anyone who reached his 65th birthday by Dec. 31, 1966 — receive several important advantages on their annual income tax return.

1. Instead of the normal $600 personal exemption accorded all under-65 taxpayers, senior citizens receive two $600 exemptions.

If husband and wife are each 65 or older they receive a total of four exemption credits.

2. Full deduction for all their medical expenses, including all their drug bills, is allowed. This is the last year for this special privilege. (Beginning on 1967 returns — filed a year from now — those over 65 will be treated like all other taxpayers. Then, only medical expenses exceeding 3 per cent of adjusted gross income will be deductible and a joint return. In another operation, each one can compute separate only after exceeding 1 per cent of adjusted gross income.)

3. Profit is tax-free when they sell their home for $20,000 or less, regardless of how much profit was made on the sale. Even when the selling price exceeds $20,000, there is a major tax saving. This is a once-in-a-lifetime election. (Details of this feature were explained in an earlier chapter.)

4. A joint retirement income credit is allowed which could exempt, in effect, an additional $2,286 in income from tax at a 15 per cent rate if husband and wife are each 65 and they file

Beardstown, Rushville Project Stalled

BEARDSTOWN — The city council's proposal to join with Rushville in a landfill project to meet state requirements regarding garbage dumping has been temporarily stymied due to a decision by Rushville councilmen to "await further state action."

Local aldermen who conferred with Rushville authorities on the plan reported to the Beardstown council Tuesday night in a regular session here.

Other business included reports on the need for a new well to replace a well on U.S. 67 east of the city. The old well is now pumping sand and the cost of repairs would be almost as great as the cost of a new one. Specifications now are being drawn up by the city engineer, and bids will be advertised as soon as possible. The well is 10 years old.

A new well is also being drilled at Main and Bay street and will be ready by summer. Alderman John Beatty said when this well is finished the water supply here will be sufficient for all needs.

Snow Removal
The snow removal problem has been taken up by the city council, and it is indicated that new equipment may be secured and that when there is heavy snow the removal job will be started at once, "night or day."

Sewage Treatment
Engineer John Goodall told councilmen that the sewage treatment plant here will be ready for use as soon as the Oscar Mayer industry is ready — this has been unofficially announced as sometime in March or April.

Jacksonville Cops 70-62 Edge Over Eisenhower

Late Free Throws Protect JHS Lead

DECATUR—Jacksonville rode hot free throw shooting in the second half to beat back repeated Decatur Eisenhower threats to record a 70-62 Capitol Conference triumph over the Panthers, here Friday night.

Taking the lead at the end of the first quarter, the Crimson never trailed but were never out of range of the hosts until the final minute of play. After Eisenhower rallied to tie the game to start the fourth frame, the Crimson refused to fold under the pressure and calmly hit ten of 12 free tosses in the remaining time to stay on top.

The victory keeps Jacksonville in a tie for the loop lead with a 4-2 mark, and boosts the Crimson to 10-3 on the season. Eisenhower, a ten-point victim to the Jacks earlier in the season, drops to 10-9 and 2-4.

With the two clubs hitting almost identical percentages from the field, the final difference came from the 15-foot stripe. There JHS canned 22 of 32, led by Duane Hess' 14 of 15 tries, to Eisenhower's 14 of 22 attempts.

The taller Panthers dominated the rebounding department, hauling down 44 to 30 for the winners, including a 20-12 domination of the offensive boards.

Panthers Come Back

Eisenhower came from nine points down midway through the third stanza to tie the contest at 51-51 on a bucket by Gary Stansberry with 7:00 left in the contest. From there Duane Hess hit three points and Rich Coble two charity throws for a five-point margin. Robin Manker hit a bucket before fouling out seconds later and Abe Brown connected from 15-feet to maintain the five-point spread.

Carson Selected New Grid Coach At Georgia Tech

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Bud Carson, aggressive little defensive chief the past season, was named Friday night to succeed Bobby Dodd as football coach at Georgia Tech.

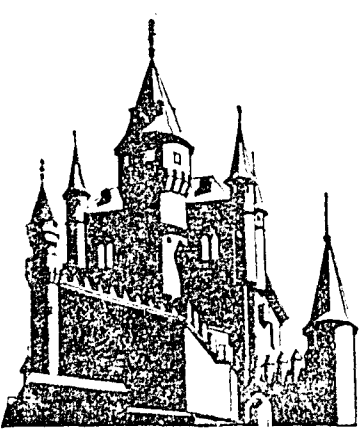

Selection of Carson as the fourth coach in the school's 63-year football history came as no surprise. Carson has been considered the top candidate since Dodd stepped down Monday after coaching the Yellow Jackets for 22 years.

Carson, at 36, the same age Dodd was when the "Gray Fox" took over as head coach in 1945, has worked under several top coaches including the late Jim Tatum at North Carolina.

The new Tech coach was hired away from South Carolina a year ago to bolster the Yellow Jackets' defenses, and his hard-titting defensive team was tabbed as "Carson's Raiders."

12,277 DIE ON FRENCH ROADS

PARIS (AP) — The government announced 12,277 persons were killed in French traffic accidents last year, a drop of 56 under the 1965 toll. There were 4,443 fewer traffic injuries and 3,947 fewer accidents, it said.

Hess swished a free toss and Brown another fielder at the three-minute mark for an eight-point margin. After George Watkins cut the margin to six, Mounts and Coble combined for three points. Seconds later Hess and Coble each hit both ends of one-and-one situations to pad the margin to a safe 70-59 with only 40 seconds showing.

Tarkenton Wants To Quit Vikings

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Fran Tarkenton, who in six years in the National Football League has established himself as one of football's most colorful players with his scrambling tactics, informed the Minnesota Vikings Friday that he does not want to play for them any more.

Tarkenton moved his disclosure in letters to the five members of the Vikings board of directors and to General Manager Jim Finks. The letters were received Friday morning.

Finks said Tarkenton detailed no reason in the letter. However, there have been rumors for some time that Tarkenton and Coach Norm Van Brocklin did not always see eye-to-eye.

And Tarkenton also has been known to want to return to his native Georgia.

One Year On Contract
Tarkenton moved his permanent home from here to Atlanta two years ago where he works as a representative of the Coca Cola Co. Tarkenton signed a two-year contract with the Vikings last year, and has one year to go on that contract.

Finks, Van Brocklin and B.H. Ridder Jr., chairman of the board of the Vikings, met Friday afternoon to discuss the letter. Finks said no conclusion was reached as to what the Vikings might do.

Tarkenton declined to discuss the matter in a telephone conversation with Twin Cities newsmen.

"It is fair to say this came as a shock to the Vikings," Finks said. "We talked to Francis (on the telephone). There is nothing more to report."

Asked to confirm that Tarkenton no longer wants to play for the Vikings, Finks replied: "It seems that's the case."

DRAKE PATIENT CENTER dedication ceremonies were held Friday afternoon on the Jacksonville State Hospital grounds. Shown above are Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Drake (I) and Dr. and Mrs. Steve Pratt, Mr. Drake is the son of the late Dr. C. St. Clair Drake, superintendent of the hospital from 1929 to 1935. Dr. Pratt is the present superintendent.

Pike, Scott, Brown District Approved By Junior College Board

CHICAGO (AP)—The petition of a three-county area in west central Illinois to form a junior college district was approved Friday by the Illinois Junior College Board.

The board's approval was the first hurdle in the Pike-Scott-Brown district's second effort. The district's first attempt was reversed in court nearly four years ago.

The board also called a public hearing March 9 at the New Trier High School West Campus on the formation of a North Shore Junior college district embracing Lake County and part of northern Cook County. The board also authorized referendum on formation of proposed McHenry County and Prairie (Decatur) districts.

Gerald W. Smith, junior college board executive secretary, said referendum dates will be set by the county school superintendents of McHenry and Macon counties.

The original formation of the Pike-Scott-Brown district, authorized by referendum in 1963, proceeded to the election of a district board before it was overturned, proponents said, on legal technicalities.

Several members of the junior college board expressed misgivings Friday over the district's small size and tax base size and the proposed Pittsfield site. They said final approval would depend upon selection of a campus site on or east of the Illinois River to encourage annexation of parts of Greene, Morgan and Cass counties.

Several spokesmen for the district, including Ray Peters and Dr. Thomas Bunting of Pittsfield, said the district's population and tax base already exceeds minimums set by law. The spokesmen said they were certain that adjacent sections of Greene, Morgan and Cass would ask in after the district is organized.

Peters said the Pittsfield site was not an irrevocable choice — only that it was available at the time the petition was prepared.

The junior college board also: —Approved the annexation of Earlville school district to the Illinois Valley Junior College District, and the remainder of the Carlyle High School District to the Kaskaskia Junior College District.

—Authorized a referendum on annexation of the Geneseo Community Unit District to the Black Hawk Junior College District.

—Accepted the petition of the Martinsville Community Unit District to withdraw from the proposed Robinson Junior College District and be annexed to the Eastern Illinois (Mattoon-Charleston) Junior College District.

A 17-year old local youth sustained minor injuries Friday night when he lost control of his car and crashed into a sign post on West Walnut street near the Webster street intersection.

Officers identified the youth as Michael A. Miller, 17, of 408 Woodland, driver of a westbound auto on Walnut.

Miller told police he had just passed a westbound vehicle, when a second westbound car passed his car and cut sharply in front of his vehicle.

Miller said he lost control of his car and it slid across the street jumped a curb and struck the sign.

He sustained a minor abrasion. Officers cited Miller for too fast for conditions.

Pay $100 Tab On Wheel Tax Charges Friday

A Jacksonville man entered a plea of guilty to failure to purchase a wheel tax sticker for an automobile and a motorcycle before Magistrate Paul Fenstermaker Friday morning and was assessed fines and court costs totaling $100.

Nelson Burnett, 1337 South East street entered the plea and paid $25 and $25 court costs on each charge. The case was handled by City Attorney J. Edward Flynn.

The city council passed an ordinance several weeks ago to allow residents who are nabbed for wheel tax violations to appear at the police station and pay a $10 penalty and showing purchase of the required sticker. There are no court costs involved in that transaction.

If residents fail to comply with the law, the case is handled in regular court which adds court costs in addition to the fines.

RURAL VIRDEN TEEN OVERTURNS TRUCK

A 19-year-old Virden youth escaped serious injury Friday afternoon when the grain truck he was driving went out of control and overturned on Ill. 111 three and one-half miles south of Waverly.

State police identified the youth as Orville L. Huffman, 19, of route one, Virden. Huffman, who escaped unhurt, was driving an H and L Grain company truck of New Berlin.

Officers said that the truck, loaded with ears of corn, was northbound, when Huffman lost control of the vehicle and it ran off the road and overturned.

Traffic was snagged for several minutes until the obstructions could be cleared from the highway. Officers listed the time of the incident at 3:30 p.m.

Films Show Terrell Did The Fouling

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Terrell did all of the fouling while Cassius Clay was blameless. "While you're looking for my first foul, note that he's fouled me about 90 times," said Clay fight Monday night in Houston showed Friday.

The film of key rounds of the one-sided fight was shown several times for a commentary by Clay and sports commentator Howard Cosell on ABC's Wide World of Sports, which will be shown Saturday. The time is 5 p.m. EST.

Terrell, who underwent surgery Thursday for an injured left eye, charged after the fight and again Thursday on tape for ABC that Clay poked his thumb into his left eye and also rubbed his eye against the ropes in the third round.

He said this caused double vision and was mainly responsible for his defeat.

The film, however, shows that the eye started swelling in the third round, before the two wrestled on the ropes, and fails to show any thumping by Clay.

The film backs up Clay's claim that he hit Terrell hard, clean and often in the disputed third and fourth rounds, and that a solid right uppercut to the eye might have caused the injury.

The taped film of the fight also shows Terrell guilty of repeated low blows, hitting behind the neck, hitting on the break and palming — rubbing the palm of his glove against Clay's face.

It wasn't until the fourth round that Terrell turned and protested to referee Harry Kessler, who did nothing about Terrell's appeal.

"While you're looking for my first foul, note that he's fouled me about 90 times," said Clay when the third and fourth rounds were run off his for commentary.

Clay charged the press with distorting reports of the fight from Houston but later, after manager Herbert Muhammad talked to him, amended that to "some writers from New York and Chicago."

Cosell told Clay that he and Muhammad had misinterpreted the press' reaction to the fight and that newsmen were more incensed over Clay's taunting of the stricken fighter in the eighth and ninth rounds than over the beating.

"Clay then apologized 'for making the ring a speaking rostrum' and for taunting Terrell by asking him 'what's my name?'"

"But I'm not apologizing for whipping him," added Clay, who has discarded that name claim that he hit Terrell hard, clean and often in the disputed third and fourth rounds, and that a solid right uppercut to the eye might have caused the injury.

"The referee has the authority to stop the fight if it's so cruel. The doctors have the authority to stop the fight if it's so cruel. My job is to whip him. He's out to beat me and I'm out to beat him. If I'd stopped the fight I'd lose it."

"I want to say he's a real man. He kept coming and fighting. He took my best. I don't know if I could have taken such a beating."
